ASKS DATA ON COST OF WATER PRESSURE CURE

Mayor Moves to Correct Ills In Distribution System In Woodland District.

SAYS SUPPLY ADEQUATE

City Knows Needs, Survey 3 Years Ago Gave Complete Picture, Hunter Adds.

Charges of an inadequate Woodland water supply following a $40,000 fire on Woodhill road Wednesday night, today had caused Mayor Claude M. Hunter to ask City Engineer W. C. Statler for an estimate on the cost of correcting the situation in that vicinity.

"We have an adequate supply of water," the mayor said, "but our distribution system is inadequate to make the supply available at all points in the city."

Survey Shows Cost.

He pointed out that three years ago the city had spent $3,000 for a comprehensive survey of the water supply and distribution system which showed that approximately $650,000 was required to completely revamp the system in order to guarantee the proper supply at all points in future years.

"We have spent this money for the survey. We now know our needs. Are we going to make the proper use of it?" the mayor asked.

"The city received the survey complete in every detail but it is useless unless the recommendations contained in it are complied with and carried out."

Inadequate Mains Known.

He pointed out that the survey does not recommend that fire hydrants be connected to four-inch water mains anywhere in the city, "yet at the present there are numerous lines as small as two and three inches and known to be inadequate and should be replaced."

"These improvements cost money and to obtain them, we must have the support of all civic-minded citizens," Hunter said.

"We boast of our low bonded indebtedness and low tax rate which are among the lowest for any city the size of Mansfield in the United States, but we have won the honor and glory at the expense of foregoing numerous city improvements and conveniences to which our citizens are properly entitled."

Hunter explained that the problem of financing civic projects including improvements such as schools, parks and water and sewer systems cannot be regarded from a sectional viewpoint but must be considered by the city as a whole.

"After all," he said, "we are just one big family and we must approach our problems in a manner that will benefit us all."

SPURS INQUIRY

Prosecutor Says More Linked In Abortion Racket.

NEW YORK—(AP)—More indictments were promised today by special prosecutor John Harlan Amen as he pushed investigation of an abortion racket which he said was responsible for 100,000 illegal operations annually in Brooklyn alone.

Sol Ullman, 46-year-old lawyer, was indicted yesterday on five charges of bribery and conspiracy to obstruct justice by protecting physicians engaged in the alleged racket.

Ullman, boomed briefly in 1932 as a potential Republican candidate for governor, resigned 12 days ago as an assistant state attorney general.

Ullman was specifically accused of taking $13,000 in illegal fees from one physician since 1932.

PILLS KILL BABY

Twin Sisters Critically Ill After Eating Red Coated Tablets.

CHICAGO — (INS) — Red coated pills they thought were candy were blamed today for the death of Mary Ellen McNorton, 2, and the attack that left her twin sister, Martha, in a critical condition. Carey, the McNorton's 3-year-old son, ate only a few of the pills and was saved by a stomach pump. The pills, containing strychnine, had inadvertantly been left on a table where the children found them.

JANE WITHERS ILL

HOLLYWOOD — (INS) — Confined to her home with a mild attack of influenza, Jane Withers, popular juvenile screen star, was reported recovering rapidly today. She probably will be able to return to work next week, doctors said.

Sees Hitler Picking War To Save Rule

Refugee Predicts Nazis to Take Up Arms to Avert Social Revolt.

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

Adolf Hitler will lead Germany to another war rather than allow his Nazi dominion to fall by an impending social revolution resulting from the financial bankruptcy of the country because of its extensive re-armament program, Dr. Ernst Fraenkel, a German refugee, predicts.

"The end of Germany is complete financial bankruptcy," Dr. Fraenkel contends. "The country is engaged in the greatest re-armament program in the history of the world and one that will drain the financial resources of the nation."

* * *

Addressing an audience of more than 300 last night at the Delano lodge hall where he appeared under the auspices of the steel workers' union Dr. Fraenkel asserted that the time of war would arrive when Germany can no longer produce arms because of its exhausted credit to import iron and steel of which the country has no natural resources.

* * *

"In that moment, Hitler's dream of Naziism will collapse," he said. "There will then not be six million unemployed as there were during 1929 to 1931, but 12 to 20 millions, and a social revolution will result.

"Hitler seeing the possibilities of bankruptcy will then take his arms to war against any nation to save the Nazi regime from the fate of a revolution."

EX-OFFICIALS GO TO PEN MONDAY

Trio Slated to Be Taken to Columbus Shortly After Bonds Expire.

The three former city and county officials who were given one-to-10 year sentences last Monday for embezzlement will be taken to the penitentiary Monday soon after their bonds expire at 9 a. m., authorities said today.

C. A. McKinley, court assignment clerk, said commitment papers will be ready Monday morning and Sheriff E. P. Long indicated he would take the trio to Columbus immediately.

In the group are A. F. Marvin, 40, former clerk of the village of Plymouth; Allen K. Ports, 31, dismissed clerk of the Mansfield municipal court, and Russell K. Erdenberger, 36, dismissed tax collector for the Mansfield Conservancy district.

The men, all of whom pleaded guilty to grand jury indictments and received identical sentences, will appear before Judge C. H. Huston Monday morning at the expiration of their bonds. Sentence will officially be imposed then although Judge Huston ordered them to the pen last Monday.

Entry of the sentences on the court records was withheld until Monday to permit them to obtain a week's stay of execution to attend to personal affairs.

It is a general belief that county authorities will recommend the parole of the former officials as soon as they have completed the minimum of one year of their sentences.

Sheriff Long took Mrs. Elma Ramsey, 27, colored, to the Marysville reformatory today to begin a one-to-20 year sentence for perjury.

Mrs. Ramsey admitted she presented false testimony before the county grand jury in January when it was investigating a charge of shooting with intent to wound her husband, John Ramsey. Sentence was imposed four days ago by Judge Huston.

Job Striker Quits Bridge Perch

Ray Stana on bridge; inset, arrow shows his perch.

Many people have jumped off bridges because they couldn't find work, but Ray Stana, 19, jobless Cleveland youth, is the first to climb a bridge for the same reason. Crawling to the top of the High Level bridge in Cleveland's business section, Stana announced he would stay there until he was offered a job. Firemen finally forced the youth to come down after putting up an 85-foot extension ladder.

Bridge-Sitter's Job Quest Ends If He'll Accept

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Ray Stana, 19, who advertised his need for work by perching for six hours on a lofty girder of Cleveland's high level bridge, received a job offer today.

The National Youth administration offered the unemployed exsoda-jerker a part-time job paying $25 a month. There was no immediate indication if he would accept.

Stana was taken to the county jail's observation ward after firemen yesterday hoisted a ladder to his hideaway 70 feet above the span's roadway, ending a "you-find-me" game with a squad of policemen. County psychiatrists planned to interview him today.

GOES ON TRIAL

Martin Absent, But CIO Board Proceeds With Hearing.

(By United Press)

CLEVELAND — Homer Martin, elected president of the United Automobile Workers before the union split into two factions, went on trial today before the group which is recognized by the Congress of Industrial Organizations as the rightful union.

Martin, who this week was re-elected president of the faction he heads at a convention in Detroit, was not present. Members of the UAW-CIO executive board who considered the charges against him were the members whom he suspended in January and who subsequently set themselves up as leaders of the UAW with R. J. Thomas as acting president.

Their first action was to suspend the president who had suspended them, and the trial today was officially to remove him as president. The board said that the fact that Martin himself would not appear was immaterial.

MILK PRICE DOWN

CANTON—(AP)—Milk prices in Canton dropped one cent today, bringing the local schedule in line wth those in Cleveland and Akron. The quart price dropped to 10 cents and pints to six cents, with a cent cut in the price of half pints of cream.

PLAN TO FIGHT AIRPORT SALE

Two Aero Groups Formulating Opposition; Mayor Writes For Federal Assistance.

Opposition to the proposal now before city council to sell part of Mansfield's municipal airport was being studied today by both the Richland county chapter of the National Aeronautical association and the areonautical committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

This was disclosed by Dr. L. D. Bonar, governor of the N. A. A. chapter and also chairman of the C. of C.'s committee, who said that a joint meeting of the groups had already been held to formulate opposition to the plan. He said it was quite possible that the groups would make formal protest to council at its next meeting April 4.

It was explained that the committees had informally discussed Councilman George C. Kyle's proposal to sell the northwest corner of the field to the Mansfield Telephone company for a sub-station site and had outlined several reasons for opposing such a plan.

"If Mansfield is ever to have air transport traffic it must preserve all available land that it now owns to provide for suitable facilities when that time arrives," Dr. Bonar said.

It was pointed out that the committees felt it unwise to sacrifice any of the land, fronting on

Pope Names Cardinal Maglione As Papal Secretary of State

(By Associated Press)

VATICAN CITY — Pope Pius XII today appointed Cardinal Maglione, former nuncio to Paris, as Vatican secretary of state—the position which, as Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, the pontiff himself had filled under Pius XI.

Cardinal Maglione, as an experienced diplomat, is 62, one year younger than the pontiff.

He is one of the Pope's intimate friends. They were classmates in Capranica college at Rome when they were studying for the priesthood.

Pius XII in his first speech, broadcast the day after his election March 2, indicated he would use his influence for peace as did his predecessor and chose Maglione as a faithful friend who would carry out his policy in a wholehearted spirit.

The two men are well acquaint-

REPORT 'HEAVY FIGHTING'

Nationalist Artillery Shells City; Communists Build Up New Resistance.

BULLETIN

MADRID — (INS) — The national defense council announced today that the central and provincial committees of the Communist party surrendered unconditionally at noon to the forces of Col. Segismundo Casado.

(By Associated Press)

MADRID — Booming guns along the western margin of Madrid today indicated that Generalissimo Franco's armies had attacked the city while Republican General Miaja's forces still were mopping up Communists in the war within a war.

Resumption of bombardments along the 28-month-old siege lines indicated that the Nationalist forces, which had withheld their fire during the six-day revolt against Miaja's "peace with honor" program, had resumed the attack.

Artilleries Exchange Fire.

Fierce artillery fire developed on the Nationalist-Republican front southeast of Madrid also and observers reported "heavy fighting" and a "terrific duel" of artillery batteries.

Within Madrid fierce machine-gun fire through the night drove the Communist rebels from what Miaja's National defense junta called their last major stronghold, in Independencia square near the center of Madrid.

But the Communists merely retired to set up a new resistance center in a maternity hospital in O'Donnell street.

The hospital contained about 1,000 women, expectant mothers and others with newborn infants.

Elsewhere in the city Communists were being dispersed and groups of them were surrendering.

Attack 'Headquarters.'

Troops loyal to Miaja also attacked a Communist "provincial" headquarters with field guns. During the bombardment fire developed in the buildings. Miaja troops finally broke in and seized a few Communists.

A mobile army loyal to Miaja,

Gorin's pretty young wife, Natasha, accused of conspiracy to violate the act, was found not guilty by a federal court jury which returned the verdicts after three hours of deliberation late yesterday.

Salich and Gorin were convicted of stealing and transmitting to Russia information vital to the national defense of the United States.

6,000 Jews In Italy Face Arrest After Midnight.

ROME — (AP) — An estimated 6,000 foreign Jews watched with anxiety the approach of the deadline at midnight tonight of an order for them to leave Italy. They have no place to go. They lack permission to enter other countries.

After midnight they are subject to arrest for violation of the expulsion decree issued last fall.

One Film--Now No. 1 Glamor Gal

Gorgeous Hedy Does for Movies What Ruth Did for Baseball.

Hedy Lamarr, who eloped with Gene Markey a few days ago, has lifted Hollywood out of the doldrums.

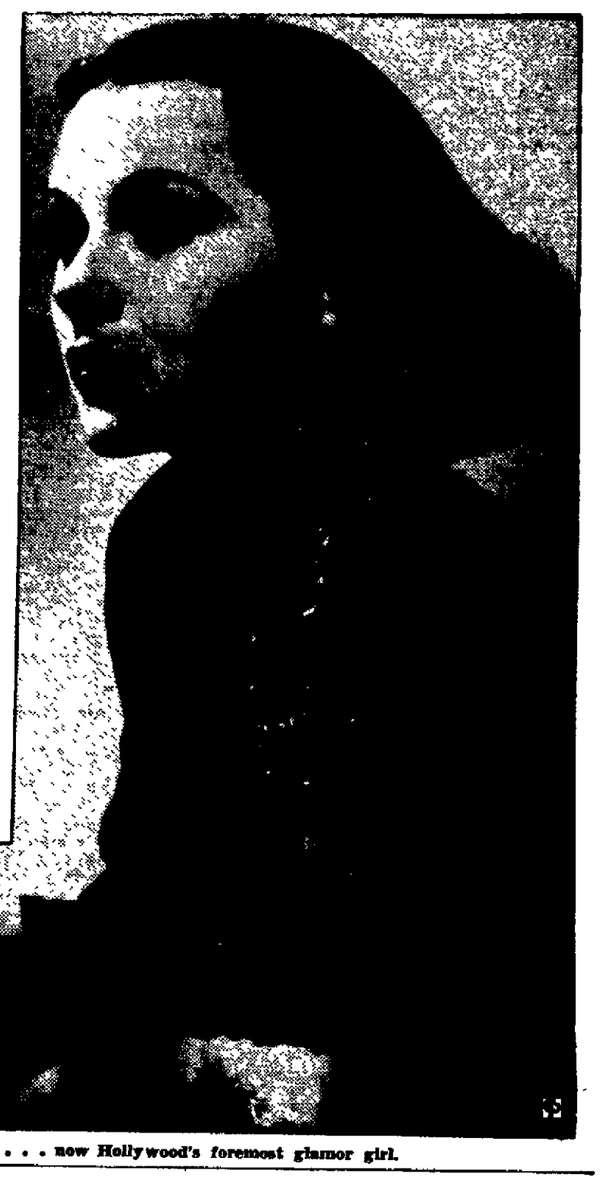
The shapely beautiful brunet whose foreign-made "Ecstasy" was sensational, quietly speaking, already has established herself as Hollywood's No. 1 glamor girl, and she has made only one picture, "Algiers."

She is doing for the movies what Babe Ruth did for baseball, and what Donald Budge did for tennis.

But that very glamorous beauty is proving somewhat of a headache to her studio, for it presents story and casting problems. After several hundred thousand dollars had been spent on "I Take This Woman," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer shelved it and released the co-star, Spencer Tracy, for another picture, because it wasn't a suitable story for a top-notch glamor gal.

There are, apparently, very few stories to suit an actress with a face like a brunet angel, a figure like Cleopatra's, and a voice like a muted violin. Which may have been one of the reasons M-G-M kept the beauteous Hedy idling on the lot for eight months before her debut in "Algiers" opposite Charles Boyer.

But now her future is assured and she will be co-starred with such male twinklers as Gable, Tracy and Taylor.



Hedy Lamarr . . . now Hollywood's foremost glamor girl.

SCARLET FEVER TAKES 2 LIVES

Willard Man, Mansfield Baby Stricken; No Epidemic Authorities Say.

Two deaths from scarlet fever—one in Mansfield and one in Willard—were reported today.

Dr. R. C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner, said however, that there is no epidemic of the disease in Richland county, and not more than a normal number of cases of the disease. Five were reported in the county this week, as against nine the previous week.

The Mansfield victim of the disease was Joan Ruth Kaschuba, two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Kaschuba, 137 West Second street. She died today.

Lester DeWitt, 39, near Willard died yesterday.

The Kaschuba baby had been ill for a week. Mr. DeWitt was ill for only a few days. His wife, Nora, two children and his mother are also reported ill with scarlet fever.

Private funeral services for the Mansfield girl will be held Sun-

Record Baby Born At Hospital Weighs Nearly 12 Pounds

What is believed to be the largest baby ever born at Mansfield General hospital, a boy weighing 11 pounds, 12 ounces, was born at 7:30 a. m. today to Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Duncon, colored, 213 North Diamond street.

The baby, yet unnamed, measures 25 inches in length, and according to present hospital figures is the largest on record there. Miss Ethel Webster, supervisor of the maternity ward, said.

Miss Webster, who has been in charge of the ward for nearly four years, said the Duncan infant is the largest delivered at the hospital since she has been there. Records show that a baby weighing 11 pounds, two ounces, was born at the hospital six or seven years ago.

The average weight of a child at birth is about seven pounds three or four ounces, and the average length is 20 or 21 inches.

FORECAST AFFAIRS FOR WEEK TO COME

Predicted Events for Mid-March Cause Writer to Disregard Threat Associated With March 15; Chatter About Coming Meetings.

By FRANCES E. GENSLEY

CLUB AFFAIRS for the coming week foretell so much activity that we are tempted to flagrantly disregard the warning of the soothsayer in Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar" regarding the "Ides of March" and just look forward to being able to write numerous stories in the next few days about club functions and entertainment.

This week-end has a brighter aspect than past days have offered so we are looking forward to some very full moments before Sunday's sun rises in the eastern horizon. It is the marriage of Sylvia Ververka and Roy Myers which took place at her mother's home on Arlington avenue today that has caused a good deal of excitement.

Looking Over the Week's Calendar.

It's the meeting of the Child Study club at the C. B. Todd home out on Park avenue west that occupies some of your favorite bridge partners this evening. The women are entertaining their husbands, and Dr. C. L. Anspach, Ashland college, will be the guest speaker.

Monday.

Arrangements for the meeting of the Mary Washington chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution have been altered somewhat this month so that the delegates may leave Mansfield to attend the state conference at Toledo. Members will have a session at 11 a. m. Monday at the home of Mrs. George Searle, 81 Sturges avenue. This will be a regular business meeting, and luncheon will not be served.

Comparatively few activities are planned Monday, but among the important club sessions will be the Victorian meeting at the Women's Club. Mrs. H. T. Siegenthaler will be in charge of the affair which is scheduled for 2:30 p. m. During the evening the American Legion auxiliary will gather at the home, and the Daughters of Union Veterans will conduct a meeting at the Memorial building. Mrs. Gladys Lane will be hostess at her Park avenue west road residence for the meeting of the consumer purchasing group.

Delta Theta Tau girls have planned a social meeting the same evening. Miss Maxine Jones, Mrs. Ward Ingraham, Mrs. Clifford A. Faust and Miss Lee Heim will be the hostesses for the affair. Little Flower Study club members will have a covered-dish dinner with Mrs. Joseph Kuebler, West Second street.

The only other events scheduled for Monday are the luncheon of the W. B. A. Pioneer club with Mrs. Sidney Smith, and the gathering of the Madam Cotta class with Mrs. Helen Marks on Helen avenue.

Tuesday.

So many things have been planned for Tuesday that the casual observer is likely to feel breathless even before he gets half way along in the scheduled activities. The American Association of University Women will have dinner at the Women's Club, and then a program to be presented by the American Novel study group of the organization. Mrs. O. M. Newton, member of the group, will be presented in a review of "Remember the End" by Agnes Turnbull. Music will be furnished by Miss Pearl Danback and Miss Hester Robinson.

Unless Miss Kathleen Sturges changes her mind suddenly and rushes off to another city for a visit, she will entertain the Tuesday Book club members at her Overlook road home. Mrs. Walter C. Stevens will assist her, and Miss Thelma Slack, Ashland college, will be the guest speaker. A guest luncheon will be the feature of the day when the Tourist club members and their friends gather at the Women's Club. Mrs. G. J. Kochenderfer and Mrs. Sidney Palmer will be the hostesses. Mrs. Helen Loomis Linham will be the guest speaker.

Mrs. Robert B. Black, Millsborough road, will be hostess Tuesday afternoon for the luncheon meeting of the Pilgrim guild of First Congregational church, and the Bethany circle of First Presbyterian church will be entertained at luncheon at the church. Mrs. Paul Eliot will review "Prologue to Glory." Hostesses include Mrs. W. J. Bishop, Mrs. Carl Gibson, Mrs. David N. Roller, Mrs. George Ingram, Mrs. W. G. Black, Mrs. C. V. McConnell, and Mrs. Carl Russell.

A business meeting will be held by the Joan of Arc circle Daughters of Isabella at the club rooms in the Bird building. The Notre Dame Study club will have a covered-dish dinner with Mrs. Emmett Casey at her home on West Fourth street. Two of the Mansfield sororities, Beta Sigma Phi and Chi Sigma, have set meeting dates. Miss Aleen Hughes, Brinkerhoff avenue, is the hostess for the first club, and the Chi Sigma girls will meet at the hotel.

In addition to the things discussed here many meetings of church organizations and small social groups are also listed in the weekly calendar, but space prevents a full announcement.

Wednesday.

Wednesday afternoon and evening are destined to be busy times too, although fewer of the city's major organizations are set to meet then than on Tuesday. An affair of some interest in scholastic circles will be the meeting of the Teachers Wives club.

These busy women will entertain their husbands, children and friends at a family night party at North Lake park pavilion. Arrangements for the session are being made by Mrs. E. A. Mann, Mrs. A. T. Owens, Mrs. Harry Mehock, Mrs. J. J. Thoms, Mrs. C. H. Freehafer, Mrs. C. A. Byers, Mrs. S. K. Jorgensen, and Mrs. A. L. Derr.

Luncheon will be served at the Women's Club to members of the Nomad club when Miss Helen Hurst entertains, and Miss Ruth Zelenka will hostess the Mansfield Junior Sorosis at her Summit street home. A dinner meeting followed by a card party will be held at the park pavilion when the Prospect Park association members meet.

The Queen Esthers and Standard Bearers of the First M. E. church are planning a guest party at the church, and the Women's Missionary society of the United Presbyterian church will be entertained by Mrs. George Riel, 162 Gibson avenue.

Among the other planned meetings are the Wooden Shoe Euchre club, Anytime club, Entre Nous club with a dinner at Staiger's, DeLuxe Pinochle club, Cyane club, Do-Be-There club, Friendly Neighbors, Nancy Neil, and the Congenial Arts club which will have a noon covered-dish dinner with Mrs. Charles Rhoads.

Members of the Miriam Rebekah lodge will gather at the I. O. O. F. hall during the evening while members of the Auxiliary No. 100 to the S. of U. V. will meet in Memorial hall. Miss Margaret Tinsley will be hostess to the Problem of the month group of A. A. U. W. at her home on Coleman road. During the afternoon welfare work will be done by members of the E. L. K. Sewing circle at the Women's Club following a luncheon with Mrs. Andrew Theiss in charge.

Thursday.

Events for the last three days of the week seem to be as scarce as they were plentiful earlier, but probably there is enough to keep everyone busy just the same. Two circles of the First M. E. church have already announced their intentions of meeting Thursday, and it is likely that others will be calling in last minute announcements Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Mrs. Sidney Palmer, West First street, will entertain Circle Six, and Circle Five will gather with Mrs. Samuel Craig on West Fourth street.

Re-organization will be the program of the day when the guild at the First Presbyterian church meets with Circle Five in charge of the program. At this time members will be named to the newly drawn up circles. Study will take up the evening for members of the Joan of Arc Study club when Miss Mary Rizzo and Mrs. A. E. Weakland entertain, while fun will be the interest of Gamma Gamma Gamma sorority members when Beta chapter plays hostess to other chapters here.

Mrs. Leo Saltzgaber has invited members of the auxiliary to the Firemen's local to her home for a covered-dish dinner, and sewing will be done by the Sewing group of the First Congregational church at the church.

During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Morganstern, Miss Helen Boyer and Lawrence Chamberlain will be in charge of the meeting of the St. Paul Thursday Nighters at the church, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Jameson, West Third street, will entertain the Hylo club. Octo club members will be the guests of Mrs. Anthony Majoy on Grant street, while all the members of the Happityme club trek over to Galion to have a covered-dish dinner with Mrs. Wesley Herr.

Friday.

Two of Mansfield's garden clubs —the Cottage Garden club, and the Town and Country Garden club—have set meetings for this date. The first group will be entertained by Mrs. C. H. Ferguson on Woodward avenue, and Mrs. C. H. Bell, Dickson parkway is the hostess for the other group.

Luncheon will be served the Priscillian members at the Towne House with Mrs. R. A. Glessner as hostess, and Mrs. Clara Calver will greet the Busy Bee members at her home on South Main street.

The Misses Vera and Myrtle Yohn will serve a chicken dinner at their home on Trimble road to members of the Gleaners class of the United Brethren church.

Saturday.

Of course the most important thing for Saturday is the marriage of Miss Martha Fichter and George H. Bender in Lakewood. Many Mansfielders will miss the thrill of seeing the ceremony, but of course, relatives and a few friends of Martha's will be there for the solemn ritual.

Schwarz Tavern on the Lexington avenue road will be the scene of the meeting of the Women's auxiliary to the Railway Mail association. Mrs. R. E. Culler, Mrs. J. C. Robinson, Mrs. L. C. Wilson and Mrs. Carl Miller will be in charge. Two other social clubs, the newly organized Schnitzelbank club and Puenta club will also meet. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Berg will entertain the first group, and the others will meet with Mr. and Mrs. Carl Phillipon.

CONVICT'S DAUGHTER + + +

By RUTH RAY KANE

(Copyright, 1939.)

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN

Lona insisted upon leaving Bridgewater immediately after her father's funeral. Despite the kindly efforts of the old minister and his wife to persuade her to remain with them for a rest, she felt she could no longer stand the place, with its familiar scenes and its memories.

After that last pitiful visit to the churchyard it was haunted; she felt that she had done with it forever. She never wanted to see the place again. It was as if she had written finis to a chapter of her life, a dark, fateful chapter, with which she was glad to be done.

It was with that feeling of finality uppermost in her mind that she listlessly made the train ride up to the city the morning after they had laid her father to rest. She was surprised to realize that, on the whole, she felt relieved. The thought of her father sleeping back there in the churchyard beside the mother she could scarcely remember was that much less terrible, now that the shock was over, than the thought of him shut away, living, in that gray stone horror of a prison.

At least he wasn't suffering, eating his heart out for her. She could feel easy about him now. She could plan for the future with a free mind. The worst had happened and it was over. She began to be anxious to get back to work, and to Jim.

* * *

She half expected to find Jim waiting for her in the station where she had parted from him—was it less than a week ago? An absurd little wave of disappointment took hold of her as she scanned the milling, big-city throng, in vain, for his familiar face. Then she smiled wanely at her own childishness. Of course he couldn't possibly be here. She hadn't notified him she was coming back so soon. Besides, it was noon, and he would be at work.

After the smug quietness of small-town Bridgewater, filled for all its peaceful surface with devouring eyes that had followed her every move as if she were some rare sort of animal on display, the impersonal bustle of the city streets was a welcome relief. The feeling of strain that had ridden her every minute since she had left Jim on this very platform lifted for the first time as she hailed a taxi and, giving her boarding house address, settled into it gratefully.

The driver took her orders without a second glance her way, and she could have hugged him in relief. After a week of reporters popping up at every corner, cameras flashing unexpectedly, and fingers pointing, it was good to be home. Home, where she could forget. . . . She'd take her luggage to her room, she decided, as she paid the driver before her boarding house door. After she had freshened up a bit, she'd leave a call for Jim at Mrs. Peterman's, and then go to the office and report for work.

A sudden shyness overtook her again, however, as she lugged her bag through the hall door and found her landlady's scrawny figure standing beside the stairs, facing her, an outraged look on her peevishly lined face, her lips tight.

"So you're back!" the landlady said, before Lona could bring out even a hesitant greeting. "It's a wonder you've the nerve to show up here at all."

For a moment Lona stared at her. "Why, what do you mean?" she brought out.

"This is a decent boarding house. That's what I mean." The woman's eyes flashed, and her lips curled. "I'm an honest woman trying to make an honest living, and I don't harbor no notorious characters."

"Notorious characters! You don't mean — surely you can't mean—"

"Look at them newspapers!" The stricken look in the girl's eyes brought the woman's voice up defensively.

Flouncing to the table where she kept the house supply of newspapers, she picked up a morning edition angrily. It had her picture on the front page, Lona saw with sinking heart. One of the innumerable snaps the news cameras had caught of her the last few days. Sickeningly, the headlines glared out at her. "Girl Who Thwarted Jail Break Buries Father," it shrieked. "The Last Chapter in a Tragic Story Was Played Yesterday in the Quiet Country Cemetery of Bridgewater...."

"This is a decent house, I tell you," the landlady's whining voice repeated "We can't be mixed up with no convicts here!"

"I see." Lona's voice was tired. "I suppose you want me to—go"

"I'd be obliged if you'd pack up and turn over your keys. I'll give you back the rest of your week's rent. That's fair enough." She waited, her lips tight

"Yes," Lona heard herself saying. "I suppose that's fair enough. I'll go and pack."

"You can wait until evening" Her point won, the woman relented slightly. It'll probably take you all afternoon hunting a room."

But Lona shook her head. "I'll go now, she said, wearily, and trudged up the rickety stairs stairs with heavy feet.

* * *

A half hour later, out on the street with her suitcase heavy on her arm, she remembered that she hadn't put in her call to Jim. She hesitated, then hailed the first taxi she saw, recklessly. Nothing could induce her to go back into that house again. She couldn't ask that terrible woman for even the use of her telephone. The first address that came to her mind was the hotel to which Jim had directed her that night he had found her walking the streets, homeless, as she was now. With sudden resolve she gave it to the taxi driver.

It took all her nerve to force herself to walk unconcernedly into the familiar lobby and ask the clerk for a room. As she took up the pen to sign her name to the register, her hands trembled. For a moment she was tempted to sign an alias, any name but her own, but her pride intervened. Carefully shielding what she was writing with her left hand, she traced a bold "Lona Ackerman," and with a toss of her head added a defiant, "Bridgewater." Her heart came into her mouth as the clerk scanned it casually and, without a sign of recognition, handed her a key from the rack behind him.

* * *

Once upstairs in the privacy of her room, she sat down limply on her bed and gave way to the feeling she had been carefully keeping in check. That woman, how dared she! "Decent house," she had said. As if she were something—unclean. Was she never to get clear of this thing that was haunting her? Would it follow her like this always? Even here in the city she had been so glad to see this morning. Was there to be no peace?

She sobbed there on the bed for a few minutes in utter wretchedness. Then, sitting up, she wiped her eyes with sudden determination and, getting to her feet, stood before the mirror. Deliberately she forced herself to obliterate the traces of her tears and to tidy her losened hair. After all, what was one spiteful woman in a whole city full of people! Why let it get her down? Not everybody was like that old cat!

Picking up her phone she put in a call for Mrs. Peterman's boarding house. In a steady voice she left directions for Jim to call her at the hotel as soon as he returned from work. The sight of his lean face and the sound of his drawling voice across a dinner table was what she needed.

Hesitating, she almost made up her mind to call Mr. Sanders at Western Realties and tell him she would be on the job in the morning. But she thought better of it and, putting on her discarded hat again, she decided to go and see him in person. At least, she told herself, she'd have nothing to fear there!

* * *

The typewriter at her desk was clicking under the fingers of a strange girl when she opened the door of the office. From his end of the room, Barney, the office boy, stared at her blankly for a moment, then brought out a hesitating "Hello, there!"

His blue eyes wavered before her glance and went quickly to the other girl's bent head, and back again

"Is Mr Sanders in?" Lona asked, and Barney ducked his red head toward the inner office with an air of what looked like relief As she passed his desk, she saw her own picture staring up at her from the paper he had flung down hastily at her entrance, and her face burned in sudden apprehension. Was it possible that even here . . . her steps lagged as she reached Mr. Sanders' door. It took courage to open it. She thought of the words the landlady had screamed at her only a little while back, and squared her shoulders as she marched into the room.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

"Ho! Varlet!" Lillian cupped her hands to her mouth and sent out the burlesqued call with verve and enthusiasm.

Then I put an incisive question, "But, can you go down to the city in time to catch Mary before she turns down those matinee tickets the hotel is holding for her from her father-in-law?"

She shot a hasty glance at her wrist watch.

"Can I?" she countered. "Just watch me! Harry will wangle me a chauffeur out of that bunch of guards down there—and I'll be at the Lansfield, if not within the hour, at least in plenty of time to carry out your ingenious scheme. Let's have it again! I'm going with Mary to the matinee, leaving Miss Whitlock to stand guard over the suite with her life Is that it?"

"That's it," I returned smiling. "Only be sure to impress the hotel with the fact that you had to come up to the city for a business appointment and the party of the second part failed to appear. So you had a few free hours, came to see Mary, and Miss Whitlock insisted that you take her place. Is that plausible?"

"It fairly reeks of plausibility," she retored. "Now, is there anything else you want of me before I fly? Luckily, this rig will do" She indicated her extremely modish suit with a careless gesture. "I intended to go over to Southampton to an art exhibit this afternoon — Harry said I might break prison that long—so I don't have to spend a minute in preparation. I just have to snatch hat, coat and bag and climb into the car."

"Good!" I commented "That gives me a minute or two to ask about Noel. I didn't see him when I came in. I trust he arrived safely yesterday."

Something Coming.

I saw Katharine and Lillian exchange swift, significant glances, and I braced myself for something upleasant

"Oh, yes! he arrived safely enough," Katharine said, "and he's safe enough now. He's sound asleep Nobody has had the temerity to waken him, for he ought to be a wreck after his strenuous program since he came home."

"Strenuous program!" I echoed, more as a bid for information than for any other reason.

"He seemed all tired out when he arrived," Lillian said, "and ever since he set foot in the farmhouse, Olina's been running him ragged."

"Olina!" I murmured aghast, although an intuition concerning the princess had been mine with the reference to Noel's "strenuous program."

"The same," Lillian said crisply. "She nabbed him almost as soon as he set foot in the house, and started in to 'collaborate' on some musical numbers. Her mother rather put a crimp in the proceedings during the daytime and early evening by her demands upon her daughter, but after Olga finally dropped off to sleep, Olina had a clear field. They were at the piano until after midnight, and then I heard them in the kitchen, evidently robbing the refrigerator. No wonder the lad's still sleeping"

"Did it occur to you," Katharine said quietly, "that he may be feigning sleep, staying in his room so as to avoid Olina?"

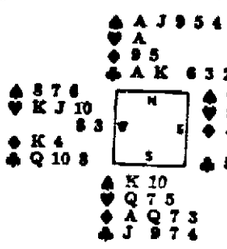
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

DANGER ON ONE SIDE

SOMETIMES THERE is no particular danger to the left of you, but plenty to the right, and vice-versa. If your job as declarer is such that you can afford to let one defender have the lead, but cannot dare give the other one the lead, you must concentrate every resource on that crucial factor. Successful handling of it can mean a difference between defeat and a successful contract with several overtricks added.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

North opened the bidding of this deal with 1-Spade, South called 2-Diamonds, North 3-Clubs and South 3-No trump. West led his heart J to North's ace, and it was South's turn to put on his thinking cap. First he saw that, if the clubs were evenly divided, he could get five tricks there, plus four top tricks on the side. So he tried the Club A and K. When East showed out on the second round, he knew that would not work.

His next count showed him that five tricks in spades would be enough to build him a game. So he played the spade K and finessed the 10. East won, returned a heart through the Q, and the defenders all told got four tricks in hearts, a spade and a club, setting him two South should have reckoned that his one great risk lay in letting East have the lead. Had he done this, he would have finessed the spade 10 immediately after winning the first trick. Following his spade suit, he could have thrown West in with the marked club Q, and the lead would have had to come up to his heart Q or diamond tenace for overtrick purposes. If the spade finesse toward West had lost, the heart Q still would have stood guard in the suit.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, March 12.

SUNDAY'S horoscope is a rather conflicting one. There is high promise for achievements in church or state, but at the same time underhanded or sinister attacks from suspicious sources are possible. These may have an undermining influence with superiors or those in authority. With vigilance to this, perseverance and right action should prosper.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a year in which much depends upon watchfulness, patience sound judgment and wise action. There are fine prospects, but these are subject to deceit, subtle enmity and the machinations of those who would undermine standing with superiors and those in power

A child born on this day may be steady, persistent, profound and able, but it may be subject to underhanded attacks of the envious and sinister

For Monday, March 13.

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is a rather adverse and annoying one with much depending on cool and definite self-control under probably very aggravating circumstances Impulsive, rash and vicious reprisals would spell disaster and defeat Also beware of craft treachery and subtle as well as the open enmity and accidents

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is should not be surprised at a year of storm and tempest, coming from hidden sources as well as from direct and vindicative attack at some definite success or preferment Jealousy and enmity reign but these call for poise deliberation and wise manipulation, rather than strife and passion

A child born on this day may have fine energies and initiative with insight as well as practical talents.

CITE BENEFITS OF CROP PLAN

State Soils Leader Asserts Program Aids Both Farmers And Businessmen.

The businessman as well as the farmer benefits from the federal farm program through increased farm buying power and a regulated supply of farm products, D. D. Deeds, assistant state chairman of the federal soils committtee, said last night in a talk in the First M. E. church.

Deeds, who spoke at a dinner meeting of farmers and business men, asserted that the objective of the farm program is "not to pay the farmer for not growing crops but to help him improve his land and adjust his crop acreage."

There is a widespread misunderstanding, Deeds said, that the federal program is distributing money for no particular reason and that it may lead to inflation.

"The real aim of the plan, however, is to induce the farmer to keep his production down to the supply level to avoid sharp drops in prices and to preserve the soil resources which are rapidly becoming depleted," he asserted.

County Agent George B. Ganyard traced the trend of farm legislation from 1920 to the present, explaining that the major objective has been to keep the farmer from growing too much for the market and overworking his land.

Howard Taylor, Lexington high school senior, recent state winner in an F. F. A. speaking contest, gave his prize-winning oration.

Approximately 145 committeemen in charge of the farm program in the county and businessmen, who were their guests, attended the dinner session. Arrangements were in charge of G. L. Taylor, county chairman of the agricultural conservation committee.

Music was provided by the Wachs-Boyce orchestra.

A Farmer's Diary

Value of Cover Crops.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

HARD dashing rain beat upon the roof most of the night. I looked out of the kitchen window toward the west, early next morning, and saw half the level portions of the large, rolling field filled with little streams coursing rapidly toward a muddy torrent that flowed down the center. I put on my rubbers and went out. The beaten path to the barn was full of muddy water; a little stream ran along the drive, filled with clay and sand; a wide ditch, furrow deep, poured darkly from the fertile surface of the garden.

I traveled farther westward along the edge of the field, to where the swirling torrent flowed. It was wide and deep in places, and bore a thick, clay color that seemed to come from the very vitals of the field. I shuddered as I watched the rich surface of the topsoil pass me by. In that headlong, rushing stream, wealth was flowing from my field. Dollars, of which I have great need, were rolling rapidly in that surging current, toward the sea. And here I stood, powerless to check this ruthless waste.

Thoughtfully, I walked down across the pasture, to where another stream flowed. Here the water was hurrying, too, but flowed clean and white across its widened bed of soft, long waving grass and sedges. The meadow grass, the timothy, the bluegrass and the clover with their abundant, persistent roots, had saved the soil.

To turn my farmer ear away from their good uses, and turn them down beneath the earth with crying rootlets upward, is little short of crime. I had been a spendthrift and a robber of my cultivated field.

Some of my neighbors, wiser than I, have sowed rye thick upon their naked fields in autumn. This conserves the top soil and gives a splendid cover crop to plow down in the spring. The plan works like magic. A man can have his cake and eat it too.

I must sow rye next year.

PETITIONS OUT TO SAVE TRUST FUND BEQUEST

Ashland Residents Seeking to Keep $26,000 Intact For County Home.

ASHLAND—The common pleas court suit of Clara Reidy and others, against Hillis Cunningham and others, which would dissolve the $26,000 trust fund of the late Juliette McConnell to be used for an old ladies' home is being opposed by a citizens committee sponsoring the circulation of 30 petitions in the county.

The committee, composed of W. T. Devor, Dr. Edwin E. Jacobs, Faye Chase, Mrs. Lois Wharton, Rev. B. F. Martin, C. C. Chapman and Birdie Noel asks that it be named by Judge H. E. Culbertson as the legal body empowered to fight the dissolution of the trust being attempted in common pleas court.

The committee was named here after interested Ashlanders met in the courthouse assembly room and decided to investigate the feasibility of having such a home in Ashland.

The move to investigate came soon after a suit was filed in court here which claimed that the original $26,000 left by Juliette McConnell, to have been used for an old ladies' home, was not doing anyone but the trustee, Hillis Cunningham, any good, and asked that the sum, grown to over $30,000, be distributed among the heirs.

U. S. TAX OFFICE READY FOR RUSH

Only Three More Days Left to File Income Return, In Case You Forgot.

The internal revenue branch office in the postoffice building was prepared today to handle a last minute rush of persons who have only three more days, after today, to file their income tax returns before the deadline.

Two extra clerks have been added, making a staff of four, but even at 8:30 a. m., today there was a line-up outside the office doors.

Midnight Wednesday is the deadline for filing and additional hundreds are expected to declare their incomes for tax purposes before the expiration time. The office opens at 8:30 and closes at 4:30 p. m. On Wednesday it will remain open until 9:30 p. m.

There has been considerable decline in the number of persons who filed this year as compared with last year, according to clerks in the office. Unemployment is given as the reason.

Very few persons inquire about exemptions that are not permitted, they say. Only a few have asked if social security payments can be deducted (they can't) and even fewer persons have asked for exemptions on cigarets and liquor purchased during the year.

The present office staff is made up of Charles S. Mosey, Albert Wentz, J. W. Seitz, and L. E. Muller of the Cleveland office.

Mansfield, Lucas Make Bids for District Titles Tonight

Tygers Defeat Willard, Face Bellevue Tonight

Bowls In A.B.C.

George Koch, 88, above will strut his wares in the A. B. C. bowling tournament at Cleveland. He will lead the Koch Furniture team of Cleveland, which is composed of family members. On the club are two sons and his two grandsons. He says he's just in the tournament to please the boys. This will be his first A. B. C. tourney.

Scott's Last-Minute Basket Enables Murphymen To Keep Championship Hopes Alive.

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

TONIGHT will determine whether the Tygers will return to Columbus this year as the Class A representatives of this district in the Ohio interscholastic championships

Mansfield high school hoopsters tangle with the powerful Bellevue Redmen in the district tournament finals in Sandusky at 8 p. m. today, and the winner automatically qualifies for the state eliminations to be staged next week-end.

Whether it will be the Tygers or Redmen who clinch the crown tonight is a matter of conjecture today, but the Bellevue boys are heavily favored in the tournament city.

The Redmen are favored on the strength of their 37 to 32 triumph over Coach Russ Murphy's black-clad proteges during the regular season on the Mansfield planks.

In the district eliminations in Sandusky, Mansfield played the best basketball until last night,* and then the Tygers responded with their poorest performance of the season . . . yes, and nearly lost.

Mansfield reached the champion round by edging the scrappiest Willard quintet ever witnessed in action by a 25 to 23 count before the smallest crowd of the tournament.

Redmen Get Test.

But the Tygers encountered little more trouble than Bellevue, which was extended to outpoint Fremont Ross, 20 to 17.

So reserve strength may play an important part in tonight's tussle as both winning clubs left the floor last night pretty well spent.

The Tygers were on the verge of being the victims of the major upset of the elimination until they snapped out of their lethargy in the fourth period.

Mansfield played losing basketball until midway of the final frame, and it was necessary for Tommy Scott to cage a rebound in the final 30 seconds to cinch the verdict.

Murphy's men trailed from early in the second period until four minutes before the end of the game when Jack Dugger knotted the score by sinking a rebound.

Dave Shelley then followed with a free throw to give the Tygers their first advantage since the opening period.

Mansfield lost the lead momentarily when Rich Simons batted in a rebound, but a beautiful one-handed shot by Ike Smith again put the Tygers in front by a 23 to 22 margin

Then Winton Jenney of Willard came back with a toss from the charity stripe to send the two teams into the final minute of play tied at 23-all.

Scott Clinches Win.

Scott ended the nerve-wracking imbroglio when he parted the strings from the side after retrieving a free ball under the Mansfield basket

For the third time in as many games in the tournament, Mansfield was tied at the end of the first period last night, the count being 5 to 5. Coach Dave Query's battlers from Willard regained the lead early in the second period on a free throw by George Sands and they held the advantage until late in the first stanza

Mansfield was able to obtain only two points in the second period, which ended with the Tygers trailing, 14 to 7 Jack Dugger's field goal from a dribble provided the two pointns

In the third period, the Tygers led by Dugger, showed signs of staging a comeback, but they continued to trail by a 19 to 15 margin going into the fourth quarter

What occured in the "frantic fourth" has already been told.

The Willard's rushing tactics did much to break up the smooth Mansfield attack, but there is no question that the Tygers were decidedly off form last night.

Their ball handling was sloppy they failed to hit the hoop in their customary manner and they lacked the drive that has marked most of their games Mansfield was particularly weak at the foul stripe, converting only five out of 18 attempts.

Their heroic comeback in the final minutes was commendable, but they looked more like themselves on the defense under the basket than in any other department of play

Tygers Rule Rebound.

They ruled the rebound almost entirely beneath the Willard basket loop permitting the Crimson Flashes few second shots

Outstanding in the Mansfield lineup last night was Dugger, who led the Tygers in scoring with 11 points

It was Dugger's ability to hit the bucket in the second half that aided the Tygers to down the Flashes whose largest lead of eight was held early in the third period

Willard lost an important cog in its machine in the final minutes when Sands fouled out The Tygers lost Scott on personals shortly thereafter

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — (INS) — Headed by El Chico, winter book favorite, the list of 115 three-year-old thoroughbreds entered in the 65th running of the Kentucky Derby on May 6, was made public today by Col. Matt J. Winn, president of the Churchill Downs track.

Other stars enrolled and their winter book odds are Johnstown, 12 to 1, Benefactor, 12 to 1, Porters Mite, 15 to 1, Xalapa Clown, 15 to 1, Impound, 15 to 1, Third Degree, 20 to 1, T. M Dorsett, 25 to 1, Ariel Toy, 25 to 1, and Hash, 30 to 1.

Surprising to turf followers was the absence from the list of Ciencia, crack filly, which won the $50,000 Santa Anita derby in California last Feb. 22 by five lengths beating some top flight derby eligibles

Max Hirsch, trainer for the Texas King stable, which owns Ciencia, telegraphed the Downs he had airmailed Ciencia's intentions prior to the entry deadline of Feb 15. But according to the rules, Ciencia is out unless the letter, properly postmarked, should arrive at this late date.

Cohen, Wetzel On Duty at Hotel Office

Work on Plans to Ready Field For Season.

The Ohio State league opener, scheduled for the Fairground Wednesday, May 3, did not appear as distant today, although the inaugural is something like 53 days away.

Today the Mansfield baseball club an affiliate of the Cleveland Indians, established headquarters at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Damon (Buzz) Wetzel, former Ohio State football star, who later organized the Cleveland Rams pro grid team, arrived in the city yesterday to take over his new duties as business manager.

Norman Cohen, Toledo attorney, who is president of the club, came to the city earlier this week to get the office in Room 311 into shape for the arrival of Wetzel, and he will remain here over the week-end.

Cohen and Wetzel spent a busy day yesterday shaping up their plans for the coming season.

The president said that work on preparing the field and stands will get under way within a week or two. Groundkeepers of the Toledo Mun Hens will be brought to the city to rearrange the diamond.

No contract has been let for the installation of lights as yet, but Cohen stated today that he expected to close a deal for the night plant within a week or two.

Manager Ray French will come to the city April 10, Cohen said, and will report to Findlay immediately to take charge of the squad two days later.

Cubs to Meet Harpster Club

Crawford, Greulich Break Loose Late In Game To Carry County Team to 23-22 Win.

By CHARLES MARTIN

SUPERIOR height was the principal factor in carrying the Lucas high Cubs into the finals of the district Class B tournament at Carey today.

The Lucas cagers face a surprising Harpster high quintet of Wyandot county in the finals at 9 p. m. and have a splendid opportunity of representing Richland county in the state finals at Columbus next week.

Mentor Alfred Axe's youngsters, probably a little over-confident and anxious to pile up a commanding lead last night, ran into a real scare as they edged a scrappy Arcadia high team, 23 to 22, in a thrilling semi-final tussle at Carey high before 1,000 frenzied fans.

Lucas went into the semi-final melee sporting a brilliant scoring record, but before it was over the* 300 Lucas rooters who were on hand to witness the game experienced several heart-breaking moments as the team failed to perform as expected.

Faces 'Dark Horse.'

The Cubs go back into action tonight against a team that was marked as a "dark horse." Harpster advanced to the finals by eliminating two of the pre-tourney favorites. The Wyandot county club upset Thompson high in its first tilt and came back last night to topple a highly-favored Carey outfit, 46 to 38.

Arcadia set up a sterling defense against Lucas' towering forwards, Tom Greulich and Bob Crawford, but in the fading minutes let the two high-scoring youths loose for the deciding points.

Greulich, who was held to two goals, the least he has collected in the tournament, flipped in the winning point on a free throw with 50 seconds to go.

Evan Anderson of Arcadia had a chance to tie the score in the last four seconds on a foul shot, but the ball rolled off the rim and Greulich caught the rebound and held the ball until the final whistle.

Lucas went into the final frame with the score knotted at 18-all and then outscored its rivals 5-4 to emerge with the well-earned victory.

In Harpster, the Lucas outfit faces a real test. Harpster, which won 16 games and lost five during the regular season, turned in a spectacular performance in defeating Carey.

If the Cubs regain their stride they will be hard to stop. And if they can subdue Harpster's Harold Dillon, Milton Chatlain and Hubert Sheaffer it will decide the issue.

Those three lads played the major roles in Harpster's victory over Carey.

Greulich and Crawford had trouble all the way in locating the basket in which they have swished through goals with ease in their two previous appearances.

Numerous times they had easy chances, but the ball wouldn't stay in.

Cubs Forge Ahead.

Lawrence Franks gave Lucas a 20 to 18 lead on a close shot in the early seconds of the last quarter and Greulich followed up with a rebound to enable his team to take a 22-18 lead, but Arcadia tied it up at 22-all in a hurry.

It was at this point that Greulich came through with the deciding point.

Arcadia led, 4 to 3, in the opening stanza, and 11 to 9 at the rest period.

Crawford, who tallied three baskets in the third chapter to enable his team to remain in the thick of the battle, set the individual tempo with 11 points. Anderson led the losers with 10 markers, while Greulich added seven to the Lucas cause.

Carey high and Arcadia open hostilities in the consolation finals tonight at 8 o'clock.

In general, 1938 has been the most successful year in the history of the Division of Conservation. Better fishing and hunting have resulted despite the increase in the number of fishermen and hunters. While the facilities for increasing the amount of fish and game to meet the constantly expanding number of sportsmen has limits, it is felt that with the increased co-operation of sportsmen and farmers these limits will not be reached for some years to come.

If you've never tried fly fishing, there's a world of sport in store for you. The lighter tackle provides greater thrills, even from pan fish, and Yuncker's will gladly help you assemble an outfit at a surprisingly small cost.

Skunks are occasional enemies of bees, thumping their feet at entrances to hives and eating the insects when they emerge . . . Wild Life Research workers at O. S. U. report that 110 rabbits and pheasants were killed for each square mile in the state, or 47,000 rabbits and 6,000 pheasants killed average per county. The startling statement is made that 4,200,000 rabbits were killed in Ohio in 1938, which, if stretched out in a continuous row would reach from Akron to Key West, a distance of 1600 miles. Also that the row of pheasants killed last year would reach from Akron to Chicago.

America's second National Wild Life Week will be celebrated this year from March 19 to 25th. This conservation project carries the cause of each of the 48 states under the sponsorship of the General Wildlife Federation. As in 1938, wildlife stamps will be distributed by state federations, participating in the program. They cover 80 subjects, including waterfowl and game birds, mammals and fish, from illustrations by famous artists.

Kudo In Top Form as He Throws Wahlberg

THE Yellow Peril in the form of Kimon Kudo, rode into Tim Nolan's Friday night Quality club wrestling show at the Armory and left Whitey Wahlberg's hopes for a crack at the world's light heavyweight wrestling championship a shambles, temporarily at least

Relentless as a Japanese bomber out to settle with a few Chinese civilians Kudo kept boring in, taking all Wahlberg had and more too, to win two out of three falls and the match before some 500 fans

That Wahlberg was in for trouble was evident from the opening gong when the Japanese jumping-jack took the offensive and gave the Canadian a good going over Whitey caught Kudo off guard however, after 27 minutes of sweat and struggle and pinned him with a crab hold following a series of spins

The Oriental's ability to slide out of almost any hold in a very short time not only bothered Wahlberg considerably — it gave the Jap a decision on the second fall. The Duluth, Minn., lad apparently had the match sewed up with a crab hold, but Kudo rolled out and gained the decision with a shoulder smother.

In the third setto, Wahlberg again was having things pretty much his own way when he had Kudo groggy from a series of seven body slams, but the Jap wasn't so groggy he couldn't apply a wrist strangle and force Wahlberg to give in or see his wrist broken.

So well did the fans like Kudo, Tim Nolan promises to attempt to bring him back next Friday in a match with Frankie Hart, semi-finalist last night

And Hart may be just the boy to put the finger on Kudo—he took Sammy Vangler of Wheeling, W. Va., in two straight falls. The first decision came after 24 minutes following a series of body slams, a scissors roll and top body press. Three minutes later Hart had the second and final fall with an Indian death lock.

In the opener, the Masked Marvel was no marvel at throwing Sailor Thomas—winning on a series of three knee punches to the groin and a kick in the spine Nolan's promise that the Masked Marvel would unmask if he lost the bout didn't materialize because he couldn't lose—the sailor was so bad.—By John Maclean.

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— Smooth-working basketball teams representing Toledo Devilbiss, Akron Garfield, Bryan and Massillon High schools became the first entrants today in the Class A State tournament at Columbus next week.

The quartet of Northern Ohio Schoolboy Fives qualified for the state classic Friday night when the torrid pace of district play relegated in discard three more 1938 state meet participants.

Marietta Team Upset.

Marietta, seeking a fourth successive visit to the state meet as Southeastern Class A winner, was upset by a never-say-die Athens quint, 31 to 29.

Canfield and Willshire, two Class B entries at Columbus last year, fell by the wayside when Rittman, a powerful Wayne county aggregation, eliminated Canfield, 33 to 22, and Delphos St. Johns swamped Willshire, 49 to 30, in the Northwestern district.

Twelve remaining Class A and 14 Class B district titleholders will be named today in the final battles of district playoffs that reached new levels of tight competition Friday. Among 45 games played, 24 were decided by the slim margins of four points or less including five by one point, 11 by two points; four by three points, and four by four points.

Prime upsets of favorites were turned in by Athens over Marietta, Bellefontaine over Middletown, 29 to 27; Maumee over Malinta-Grelton, 50 to 28; Pickaway township over Liberty Union, 34 to 33, and Amanda over Ashville, 30 to 29.

Bellefontaine rolled into the finals of the Class A meet at Dayton. Two state meet representatives will be chosen tonight. Bellefontaine plays Dayton Stivers, and Dayton Dunbar meets Dayton Fairview.

Maumee's victory was the first defeat of the season in 28 games for Malinta-Grelton. Maumee clashes with Farmer for a Class B state berth tonight at Leipsic.

Pickaway township and Amanda, two central district Class B fives, both turned over heavy favorites and will play today for a trip to Columbus. Upper Arlington and Lancaster St. Marys meet for the other central district Class B state entry.

Bryan and Devilbiss ran into stout opposition before earning their way to the state meet Friday night but Garfield and Massillon chalked up easy conquests at Akron.

Garfield swept aside Garfield Heights, 36 to 28, while Massillon rolled over Canton township, a tourney "darkhorse," 37 to 24. Three other Northeastern Class A entries will be decided tonight.

Outpoints Defiance.

Bryan, the top-ranking favorite in the Napoleon district playoffs from the start, barely nosed out a high-scoring Defiance aggregation, 30 to 28. Bryan had beaten Defiance twice by larger margins during the regular season.

Devilbiss also settled for a two-point victory over Central Catholic, 33 to 31.

Drawings for the state meet opening in the State Fairgrounds coliseum and the Ohio State gymnasium next Thursday afternoon will be conducted Monday at 10 a. m. in the Columbus office of H. R. Townsend, commissioner of the Ohio High School Athletic association.

Under the selection drawing plan, no two teams from the same district will meet in the first round.

THEATERS

"Wife, Husband and Friend."

LOVE and kisses and an occasional sock on the jaw marks the stormy romance of Warner Baxter and Loretta Young in their second picture together. Again they are seen as man and wife—a doting husband and a wife who has a fortune, a gorgeous home, and beauty, but who just can't be happy until she is famous as a singer. The story is taken from a novel by James M. Cain, who wrote "The Postman Always Rings Twice." Supporting the two stars are Binnie Barnes and Caesar Romero. Gregory Ratoff, Russian comedian and character player, handled the megaphone on the picture. It opens tonight with a midnight show at the Madison and runs through Wednesday.

"Oklahoma Kid" at Ohio.

When James Cagney turned bandit for "The Oklahoma Kid" he had an expert to guide him. Al Jennings, probably the last of the real bad men of the southwest and whose gang followed soon after the James brothers, lives in Hollywood and was engaged as technical director for Cagney and Humphrey Bogart for this particular picture. Train robber, bank bandit and killer, Jennings was caught for a crime committed in Ohio, and sentenced to life imprisonment. After five years in the Ohio penitentiary, he was paroled by President McKinley and later given a full pardon by President Teddy Roosevelt, and has been a law-abiding and respectable citizen since. Rosemary Lane provides romance in this stirring story of Oklahoma in the land-rush days.

"Men With Wings."

The Ritz brings back to Mansfield the air epic, "Men With Wings," which traces the development of aviation from the time the Wright brothers made the first flight from Kitty Hawk to the present high-powered bombing planes. The story of a pioneer who gave his life to the development of a plane and his son and daughter who carry on his ideals, is told in colors and with stirring action. Fred MacMurray, Ray Milland, Louise Campbell and Walter Abel are the principal characters. "Speed to Burn" with Michael Whalen and Lynn Bari will also be a Sunday-Monday feature at the Ritz.

* * *

"Love Finds Andy Hardy."

Voted one of the ten best pictures of the year in several national polls, this film comes to the Majestic Sunday and Monday, for its third showing in the city. Although it is one of the Judge Hardy family series, this particular picture became something of a sensation through its sheer simplicity and humaness. Mickey Rooney runs into romantic complications with Judy Garland, Ann Rutherford (his steady), Lana Turner and Marie Blake. A second film at that theater will be "Risky Business," with George Murphy and Dorothea Kent.

"Little Tough Guys."

A cast of notable character comedians — Mischa Auer, Mary Boland, Edward Everett Horton—are seen in "Little Tough Guys In Society," which will be one of the Park attractions for the first half of the week. The story tells of what happens when a society mama adopted a bunch of alley kids as companions to help her own indolent, insolent offspring (Jackie Searl) discover the joyous possibilities of youth. "Navy Secrets," starring Fay Wray, and with Grant Withers and Craig Reynolds, is a secret service story dealing with the navy

Quality Club Through With Boxing In City

If the professional boxing sport is to be revived in Mansfield, it will have to be done by some club other than the Quality club, Fred Nolan, who served as matchmaker for last Tuesday's financial flop, announced last night. The Quality club will continue to concentrate on westling promotions, he said.

Only $102 was grossed by the show which was topped by a bout between Willie Russell, state lightweight king, and Cleo McNeil of Barberton. McNeil was the winner on a technical knockout in the fourth round when Russell was unable to continue because of a badly cut eye.

DALLAS—Bill McDowell, 151, Dallas, outpointed Bobby Britton, 148, Miami, (10).

PRICES CLIMB FRACTIONS IN BRIEF SESSON

Steps to Liberalize Short Selling Encouarge Market Followers.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Leading stocks continued to point higher in today's brief market, but advances generally were confined to small fractions.

Improved to a quiet opening were Anaconda, Douglas Aircraft, Westinghouse, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, General Electric and DuPont.

In addition to the step taken by the S. E. C. to liberalize short selling, market followers found further encouragement in trade items.

Noted were figures of the federal reserve board for last week disclosing department store sales throughout the country moved sharply ahead of the like period a year ago.

Attention was given the announcement of the interstate commerce bureau of statistics that at the middle of February, employment on Class 1 railroads was up .32 per cent over the same time last year and was 1.31 larger than in January, 1939.

SEES HITLER GOING TO WAR

Refugee Predicts Nazis Will Take Up Arms to Avert Social Revolt.

man Metal workers union, Dr. Fraenkel stated that the war will be a necessary consequence to the rest of the world to protect against the fate of what he termed the "barbarism of dictatorship."

He said that Hitler now was satisfied to pick a war that he could win without fighting, but that when the time comes when he is forced to take up arms that he will attack any country.

* * *

"I believe that he would much prefer to go to war against Russia," Dr. Fraenkel said, "but he will pounce on either France or England because of the proximity with which he can launch a sudden and powerful attack."

He predicted that the only recourse Hitler has is to win within a very short period for the limited resources of the country will not allow for another war of the length of the World war.

Fraenkel, who has been in America only seven weeks said that already Germany is suffering from food shortages because all available funds are diverted into the manufacture of arms, munitions and planes.

"Grapefruit is an oddity, and such fruits as oranges are priced so high that the average person cannot buy them," he added.

The speaker said there are plenty of staple foods available if the German people can purchase them. The laboring class of Germany which is taxed by the state so that the Nazi government can maintain its huge munition factories and arms building program is receiving a much lower wage than that received before the war of 1914, he added.

* * *

"Hitler says look at Germany —no more unemployed but really the workers and the middle class are far worse off than they were before the war," Dr. Fraenkel asserted. "They have jobs, yes, but the major portion goes to the government in taxes, all of which is poured into building for another war."

He explained that with what finally is only meager wages the German worker is unable to own property and luxuries are unheard of.

The refugee declared the nation was controlled by the Nazis through fear of the Gestapo (secret police) which respects no law and that persons are arrested for the slightest provocation—or even without cause because the secret police believes them questionable and they are then herded into huge concentration camps.

"The German people live in fear of Hitler. They shout his praises because of fear that has been forced upon them by the Nazi regime," Fraenkel said.

"The Gestapo is an enormous system that holds every citizen, every family in fearful bondage. No one knows whom the informer might be—a neighbor, a friend —a daughter or son. Therefore Germans keep a closed mouth and then whisper anything they have to say."

Dr. Fraenkel said the fears of the concentration camps is great although few persons will talk about their experiences even when they have fled to another country.

He told of one refugee who said he admitted a crime which he did not commit so he might be sent to prison instead of remaining in "the camp with all its brutality and torture."

Slovak Delegation Seeks Peace Plan.

BULLETIN

BUDAPEST — (INS) — Czech and Slovak negotiators have reached a compromise in the violent controversy now raging between the Prague government and Slovak autonomists, it was reported in Budapest today.

PRAGUE —(AP)— A Slovak parliamentary delegation was enroute today to Prague from Bratislava to try to settle difficulties between Czechs and Slovaks, among whom separatist agitation caused the removal of three ministers and the proclamation of martial law in Bratislava.

The delegation was bringing for Czecho-Slovak President Emil Hach's approval a new cabinet list of moderate Slovaks willing to continue collaboration within the federal union. The new cabinet of autonomous Slovakia was expected to be formed by tonight.

The Czechs still were in the dark over the one big question everywhere asked since the Czech lion showed its teeth yesterday when Czech troops were sent to Slovakia. The question: What is Germany's attitude?

Well-informed sources said that no official indication had been received from Berlin. (A Berlin dispatch said that in foreign office circles there a serious view was taken of the situation.)

The Deutsche Zeitungsdient, the official news service of Germans in Czecho-Slovakia, said that the German position was "to understand both the Slovak and Ukrainian objections—yes, and to counsel Prague, not to forget the federative character of the (Czecho-Slovak) constitution."

Hitler Confers on Slovak Situation.

BERLIN — (UP) — Adolf Hitler has consulted Joachim Von Ribbentrop, foreign minister, and other high foreign office officials regarding the situation in Czechoslovakia resulting from the dismissal of Slovak officials by the central government, it was understood today.

Hitler called Ribbentrop and other advisers into consultation last night, it was said in a reliable quarters, and it was decided to await further developments before taking any definite steps.

There was no indication that the government was planning at present to intervene militarily.

Informants said that before deciding on any steps the government wanted further clarification of the attitude of Josef Tiso, premier of the semi-autonomous Slovak government whose dismissal, along with that of two other Slovak cabinet ministers, precipitated what was called here a crisis.

The official Nazi news agency announced yesterday that Tiso had sent a note to the German government protesting the action of the Czechoslovak government. Contents of the note were withheld.

Well informed quarters said the German government was most annoyed at the swift action of the Czechoslovak central government in dismissing Tiso and his associates, sending troops to occupy principal Slovak cities, and imposing martial law on the Bratislava area.

MAYOR ISSUES PROCLAMATION TO OPEN CIVIC MUSIC WEEK

Mayor Claude M. Hunter today made recognition of the development in Mansfield of the Civic Music association, by issuing a proclamation making next week, March 13-18, official Civic Music week.

The proclamation precedes the official opening of the third membership drive, which takes place at 6 p. m., Monday when 160 workers and officials will meet for dinner and instructions at Park Avenue Baptist church.

The Civic Music association, one of the most popular cultural movements launched in many years in Mansfield, was organized the spring of 1937.

Starting Tuesday morning more than a hundred workers will seek to obtain renewals of this year's 800 members and enroll 200 new members. A goal of 1,000 was set as the result of the success of this year's program, of which every number made a tremendous hit with artists of international reputation. Artists who appeared here were Hortense Monath, pianist, Marian Anderson, contralto, and Efrem Zimbalist, violinist.

The Mansfield Civic Music program is made possible only by membership for the season of three presentations. Dues in the organization are $5 yer pear and this permits attendance not only at the three outstanding concerts at Senior high auditorium in this city, but also at any other Civic Music concert where seats are available.

Last year Mansfield members attended concerts in Lima and Sandusky and thus were enabled to hear Rachmaninoff and the Don Cossack chorus.

Principal speaker Monday evening will be Mrs. Mercedes Walker, New York representative of the Artists Bureau of NBC, which supplies the artists for the course.

Several other speakers will be presented briefly by Rev. David N. Roller, president of the music association, who will preside at the dinner. Mrs. W. E. Wygant is chairman of the dinner committee. Mrs. Paul Cropper is general chairman of the campaign.

state route 13, because of pending legislation now before congress to provide for a system of federally maintained airports.

Dr. Bonar explained that Mansfield as the result of a government survey of northeastern United States last fall was listed among the 168 cities out of 930 that had been inspected, to participate in the government's program.

Meanwhile Mayor Claude M. Hunter who voiced his opposition to the sale of what he termed "the most prominent" part of the field before council Tuesday night, today had sent a plea direct to officials in Washington asking that consideration be given the local site in a proposed system of government maintained air fields.

In a letter to both U. S. Senator A. V. Donahey and Congressman William A. Ashbrook, the mayor ask that they secure favorable recommendations on the pending legislation at a meeting of the Civil Aeronautics Authority next week.

Under the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, approximately $360,000 would be spent to provide proper flying facilities here, on approval of the legislation now pending.

Kyle at last Tuesday's council meeting sponsored a measure to sell a quarter of an acre of the airport to a utility which he declined to name but which he said desires to acquire the northwest corner of the field for a proposed sub-station. The measure sought to have approved as an emergency measure was referred to the utilities committee of which Russell D. Porch is chairman.

Stalin Accuses U. S., Britain, France of War Scheme

SOVIET WON'T BE 'TRAPPED'

Declares 3 Powers Fomenting Strife With Russia In Plan To Weaken Dictators.

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW — Joseph Stalin in one of his rare addresses declared today that England, France and the United States had ceased to resist world aggression in the hope it would lead to a ruinous war against Soviet Russia.

The hope, particularly of England and France, the Soviet leader told the opening session of the 18th all-union congress of the Communist party, was that a German or Japanese war against Russia would weaken and exhaust the combatants whereupon the democracies would step in to dictate peace.

Only this and an accompanying fear that another world war would lead to a victorious revolution in other countries, like that which established the Soviet in the last war, could account for "concession after concession to aggressors," Stalin said.

Offer No Resistance.

Even though "open redivision of the world and of spheres of influence is taking place before our eyes at the expense of the interests of non-aggressor states," Stalin declared that the democracies were looking on "without the least attempt at resistance and even with a certain amount of connivance . . ."

He argued that the peace of Munich was a part of a scheme for fomenting war "with Germany without a visible basis" that the Germans got Czechoslovak Sudetenland as a "reward" but now "refuse to pay this obligation."

Russia would not be a cat's paw now, he continued, to aid Britain and France under the turn of events by which "instead of moving farther east against the Soviet Union" the Germans "turn westward and demand colonies for themselves."

In its emphasis on a lack of any genuine basis for war between Germany and Russia, the speech sounded to foreign observers almost like a rapproachement between two countries.

Economic reverses of the past five years led to the "sharpening of relations between the powers," Stalin said, but the struggle had passed beyond "competition for markets" to the present "question of new re-division of the world, of spheres of influence and colonies by military action" — which led Italy into Ethiopia, Japan into China, the German drive for colonies.

In the face of this, Stalin continued, "non-aggressor countries, primarily England and France, have abandoned a policy of collective security" for one of "non-intervention" or "neutrality."

Youthful "Giant" Loses Suit, Eyes New Court Scrap

ST. JOSEPH, Mo.—(INS)—Loser in his first court tilt, Robert Wadlow, 8 foot 8 inch young giant of Alton, Ill., turned his attention today to pending litigation in Chicago where he seeks to collect damages from the American Medical Journal for publication of an article he claims was damaging to him.

A federal court jury in St. Joseph last night deliberated 45 minutes and returned a verdict for Dr. Charles D. Humberd, of Barnard, Mo., author of the article in question. Wadlow had sued Dr. Humberd for $100,000, claiming the article had pictured him in an unfavorable light.

Immediately after the verdict was returned Wadlow's attorneys said they would go ahead with the AMA suit. They further declared they had not expected to collect damages from Dr Humberd, but sought to vindicate the young giant.

Dr. Humberd, an expert on giantism, explained he had written the article for the medical profession, and claimed there was nothing derogatory in it.

County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe had a quiet "inauguration" today as he began his second term, the genial auditor going about his duties as usual. But he wore his "best and snaziest" suit, he said, to indicate it was a special day. He was re-elected last November without opposition for a four-year term as guardian of the county's finances.

And a very fine little composition it was—but it has no name and until a suitable name can be found Peter will continue to call it "The Song Without a Name."

About 300 fans followed each team to the tournament cities for semi-final games last night.

TWO NEW CASES

But T. B. Total In County Shows Sharp Drop.

The total number of new cases of tuberculosis found in Richland county so far this year was boosted to five as two more were reported at the monthly diagnostic chest clinic at General hospital yesterday by Dr T. L. Bliss, Akron.

Dr. Roy C. Reder, city-county health commissioner said the total number of new cases so far this year, showed more than a 200 percent decrease from the total of 16 reported in the same period last year. He credited early discovery of symptoms by the clinic with cutting down the number.

He added, however, that the problem now confronting health authorities was to properly provide for the care of the tubercular patients, many of whom need supervised attention.

Both new cases of tuberculosis discovered yesterday were in Mansfield. There were 27 suspects examined. Six patients whose cases had previously been diagnosed were re-checked.

GUNMAN'S TOY-PISTOL BLUFF FAILS, HE GOES TO HOSPITAL

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS—Because Howard McEllhannon, 23, colored, sought to bluff the wrong man with a toy pistol in an attempted street robbery, police reported, he was in a hospital today with a bullet wound in his side. His condition was described as "fair."

And because Frank McEllhannon, 16, the wounded man's brother, reportedly admitted he participated in the unsuccessful stickup to recoup $2 he had lost shooting dice, he was in jail for "investigation."

The man they attempted to rob last night was Russell Johnston, Columbus police officer, who was on special duty in plain clothes at the time.

Questioned at the hospital, the elder brother admitted to officers, it was said, that he used a toy revolver taken from a nephew in the holdup.

Johnston's report stated he had stopped at a confectionary store near the Ohio State university campus to make a purchase and was about to re-enter his car when the pair accosted him. At first the patrolman said he offered the brothers some change. They refused it. He then reached in his hip pocket, pulled out his service revolver, and fired.

The first bullet struck Howard and the two fled. Notified by a physician called to dress the wound, police arrested the brothers in their home, where they lived with their widowed mother.

DUCE APPOINTS CIANO'S FATHER

Mussolini Fills Presidency of Chamber of Fasces and Guilds.

ROME —(AP)— Premier Mussolini today named Count Constanzo Ciano, father of Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano, to be president of the new Italian Chamber of fasces and guilds.

The younger Ciano is Mussolini's son-in-law. The 63-year-old father was president of the old chamber of deputies which the new chamber replaces. His appointment came as a surprise to some political circles, which had forecast that Fascist party Secretary Achille Starace would get the post.

Count Giacoma Suardo was named president of the senate, succeeding Luigi Federzoni, who is now vice president.

INDUSTRY SAYS CLAUSE WOULD TIE ITS HANDS

War Department Also Protests Plan to Forbid Contracts In Union Disputes.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—The National Association of Manufacturers and the war department protested the CIO-supported labor amendment to the national defense act today as possibly jeopardizing the nation's safety and recovery.

The amendment would authorize the secretaries of war and navy arbitrarily to forbid national defense contracts to manufacturers considered to be dealing unfairly with their workers.

Opposition has spread to house members of the committee considering the bill in conference with representatives of the senate. Chairman Andrew J. May, D., of Ky., of the house military affairs committee, one of the conferees, has appealed to senate representatives to withdraw the amendment.

Warns Kentuckian.

May, it was understood, has warned Sen. M. M. Logan, D., Ky., of the conference committee that the amendment would "put house members on the spot," interfere with the business appeasement program and jeopardize recovery.

The amendment was adopted by the senate with cursory debate and without a record vote after submission by senate majority leader Barkley, D., Ky. His sponsorship seemed to have added significance because he is President Roosevelt's leader in the senate. But Scretary of War Harry H. Woodring bolted Barkley on that one and if Mr. Roosevelt takes a position in the dispute he will have to choose between his cabinet adviser and his senate leader.

Barkley is in Florida and unaware of the sudden rebellion against his proposal.

Logan said "terrific objections" have been made by the National Association of Manufacturers. He said the association protested that the proposal would "tie the hands" of many manufacturers, and that it would give the war department unusual powers.

BOYS PAROLED

Caught Attempting to Break Into Candy Store.

Two youths, 16 and 17 years old, who police caught attempting to break into R. G. Campbell's confectionary, 33 South Mulberry street, about 1 a. m. today, were paroled to their parents today by Judge C. J. Anderson in county juvenile court.

Officers said they found the boys, both high school pupils, cutting the screen on the front door with a knife. Judge Anderson said the boys were first offenders.

The theft of a radio from a home at 234 Wayne street and $65 in cash from Mrs. Frank Finney's home at 124 North Mulberry street was reported last night to police.

Mrs. Finney said the cash was missing from a purse in her kitchen after two men called saying they wanted to rent a room.

While one talked to her at the front of the house, the other went to the kitchen for a drink of water, she said. When he returned both left hurriedly.

The radio, valued at $7.95, was taken from the home of Miss Louise Bragg.

Not That It Matters

Private Fund Campaigns Peril Community Set-up; That Referendum on War

—By JANE WILLIAMS

RUMBLINGS over the city, anent the individual drives that agencies of the Community Fund are staging on their own responsibility, are growing in volume. It is a situation that should be very carefully analyzed for its effect on the community, and community welfare.

The Mansfield Community Fund was established shortly after the World war and it followed a plan that is generally recognized over the nation as being the most practical means of supporting welfare and charitable agencies,—that of making one general campaign for funds every year and allocating them to the various agencies of the community. Prior to the founding of the Fund, Mansfield citizens were solicited a dozen times a year in individual drives.

* * *

IN boom years Mansfield raised as much as $90,000 a year for its agencies, but in the last decade the amount that could be raised has decreased, at one time—in 1934—going as low as $40,000. But the agencies struggled to keep going, and under greatly reduced budgets, did valiant service. But always the plan of a centralization of funds was retained.

But within the last few months, at least three of the major agencies have conducted individual drives, on the basis of having their allocations reduced last year when the Community Fund missed its $54,000 goal by $4,000.

Yet no agency was cut more than $550 under the figure allowed it by the budget committee. In 1934 they managed to get along with far less than they had this year, even though their activities were curtailed some. But then everyone, in private or public life, has had to do just that to meet present conditions.

* * *

THESE drives, conducted largely by letters to supporters of the Community Fund, are made without authority from the Community Fund board. Comments that have come to this column indicate that those who weren't angered by the solicitations and who contributed, did so with the intention of deducting the gift from their Community Fund contributions this year.

Which is most unfair to the other agencies affiliated with the Fund, and which, if repeated year after year, will destroy the central body itself and send the city back to the days of a-drive-a-month.

Let's work to make our Community Fund goal—whatever it is—in May; but if we fail, let's hope then that our welfare agencies will operate within their incomes so that the whole structure may not be destroyed in order that a few may profit.

I NEVER cease to marvel at the Power of the Press. A couple of short paragraphs in the newspaper on the dusty and unkempt condition of Senior High school auditorium stage—and the place is being renovated. The stage has been sanded and has had two coats of varnish with more to come. And the draperies will be cleaned.

"And," said one of the faculty members, "we could have protested until we were black in the face—or until somebody choked to death on the dust—and nothing would have been done about it."

Which just shows to go you.

* * *

EVEN if you favored a popular vote on a war referendum—which I didn't—don't feel too badly that the bill was defeated by the president and his followers. It wouldn't have meant anything anyway.

The people of Quebec voted an overwhelming "no" against entering the World war — but they went just the same.

When the war-makers are ready for you to take part in a war, you might just as well pack up your old kit bag and smile, etc. It'll take something more than a referendum to keep you out of it.

* * *

IT NOT only rained, but it poured spaghetti this week. Several weeks ago I promised to make my practically famous brand of spaghetti for a small group, to be served this last Thursday night after a party.

First of the week came a card from the Rainbow veterans announcing a membership supper also for Thursday night—spaghetti. Tuesday morning the gals of The News-Journal decided on an impromptu supper downtown—and it was spaghetti. Thursday noon a friend called and said she was coming down after me for luncheon at her house, and "I'm having something you like." You guessed it—spaghetti.

And then I made too much of the stuff Thursday night and my frugal soul refused to throw it away. So we had it—baked—Friday evening for dinner.

I bet even Mr. Mussolini wouldn't care for spaghetti five times in four days.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Pegler Gets Hammer Out, Proceeds to Pound Down A Couple of His Critics

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Ordinarily, when customers write letters faulting these dispatches, I just let them have their say without carrying the dispute into extra innings.

But two letters have been received about a recent story on the state of the Irish immigrants in this country back in the last century which call for rebuttal. I am going to nail a few lies.

Some people make a habit of reading into copy statements which are not there. Whatever the reason—and I don't think they are honestly mistaken—I often find that I am challenged and rebuked for saying things I didn't say.

* * *

One who signs himself Niall Oren Meagher writes in a letter that I said the Irish immigrants were despised. That word does not occur in the copy, but, since Mr. Meagher mentions it, all right; they were despised by many of the native Americans. That is not my testimony, but the testimony of history. They were subjected to about the same kind of treatment that would be meted to the Jews if the Nazi friends of Father Coughlin could have their way in this country.

Mr. Meagher says I wrote the Irish were "a problem to America."

That's a lie. I didn't say it.

* * *

He says I wrote that the Irish were "radicals."

That is a lie, too. I didn't say it. I don't know what he means by "radicals," but I didn't use the word at all.

He says I said that the slogan "throughout the business world" was "No Irish need apply." That is a half lie. I said there was open prejudice against the Irish and that this phrase was used in employment ads.

He says I said the Irish were not good farmers. That is a full-size lie. I said they did not take readily to farming, but colonized in the cities. I don't know whether they were good farmers, and didn't attempt to say.

So that is the score for accuracy and veracity of a man who says I am "occasionally non-factual," and anyone who wants to check may refer to the date of Feb. 24, when the story appeared here.

He drags in, as a refutation of history, the records of many Americans with Irish names. Aside from the fact that Americans are Americans, whatever their names, these records have no bearing on the situation I discussed.

I was showing that in the time of Coughlin's own grandparents in this country, the Irish were the victims of persecution for their race and religion, and, incidentally, for a few honest imperfections of their own.

* * *

I was making the point that a man of Irish descent looks like hell whipping up persecution of more recent immigrants to this country.

Citation of the fact that within a couple of generations the sons of those victims of bigotry and discrimination became distinguished Americans — distinguished Americans, mind you, not distinguished Irishmen—cannot be construed into an attack on the Irish or their American descendants, either.

In the Washington Post, M. V. Gannon said I animadverted against the courage of the Irish. That is a lie. There was nothing like that in the copy, and Mr. Gannon invented this charge to provide himself a chance to sound off in defense of Irish courage—a cheap and familiar political work.

As I say, ordinarily, yesterday's story is water over the dam, but today I had my hammer out and thought I would nail a few lies.

PREPARES FOR ANNIVERSARY OF DEDICATION

St. Paul's to Mark 40th Year Of Edifice With Services Late Next Month.

Plans for commemorating the 40th anniversary of the dedication of St. Paul Lutheran church in April were outlined at a meeting of the church council this week.

D. L. Burns, chairman, Paul R. Lee, Paul Muth, and Rev. Herman L. Gilbert, pastor, were named on a committee to complete arrangements for the celebration to be held either April 23 or April 30.

Dedicated In 1899.

Dedication services for the brick edifice, located at West Third street and Weldon avenue, were held April 9, 1899. With Easter falling on that date this year, it was decided to conduct the observance at least two weeks later when one of the former pastors will be invited to preach the anniversary sermon. The present building is the second church to stand on this site since the organization of the congregation, March 5, 1852.

"The Courage of a Few" will be the subject Rev. Gilbert will speak on during the morning service tomorrow. For the Lenten vesper at 7:30 p. m., his topic will be "How Can I Be Jesus' Disciple?"

A covered dish supper will open a meeting of the Thursday Nighters at 6:30 p. m. Thursday in the church parlors. The committee in charge is made up of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Morganstern, Miss Helen Boyer and Lawrence Chamberlain.

The Guild meets Tuesday evening with Miss Carrie Emmons, 41 Williams avenue. Mrs. Freda Harden will conduct the devotional period. A feature of the evening will be a white elephant sale.

START CHECK OF REST HOMES

State Inspectors Extend Drive Into County In Enforcing Provisions Of Law.

Inspection of convalescen homes in Mansfield and Richland county was started today as state inspectors of the Industrial Relations department extended their state-wide campaign to enforce provisions of the law applying to rest homes into this vicinity.

Although they could not be located, it was learned that inspectors were in the Mansfield and surrounding cities checking on the rest homes to see that none of them were operated in frame buildings that are more than one story high. The law prohibits the use of frame structures of more than one story for this purpose.

Officials who said they "understood" that the check already had been started here, said they were not contacted by any one of the inspectors. They added, however, that they did not believe the enforcement of the law in Mansfield would effect any of the present structures now being used for this purpose.

They pointed out that there are only two or three homes in this vicinity and all conform to the state code.

The campaign, dispatches from Columbus said, was launched as the result of a fire in a convalescent home in Columbus last December which took the lives of six aged persons.

LABOR PEACE STILL REMOTE

Negotiators End 2nd Parley With Armistice Far Away; Meet Again Monday.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Negotiations for labor peace representing the CIO and the A. F. of L. wound up their second conference early today amid indications that armistice was far away.

At the end of five hours of discussion in a mid-town hotel suite, they emerged with a joint statement, saying they would meet again here Monday and making clear that no specific agenda had been accepted.

"The joint committee," the announcement said, "discussed at length the proposal submitted by the committee for the congress of industrial organizations. In the course of the discussion, the representatives of the American Federation of Labor proposed that negotiations for an adjustment of the pending differences proceed from the point where negotiations of December, 1937, were left off.

"It was agreed that the proposal submitted by the A. F. of L. and any other proposals that may be submitted will be discussed at the meeting which is to convene on Monday at 10 p. m. here."

The A. F. of L. proposals of 1937 substantially were that, after the settlement of jurisdictional problems especially involving "new" CIO unions—those established after the rupture of 1935—had been adjusted, the CIO membership would reenter the federation.

GOES INTO LEAD

South Main Church Has 3-Point Edge In Attendance.

After trailing for four weeks, South Main Street Evangelical is leading the Miller Avenue Evangelical church of Columbus by three points at the halfway mark of their attendance contest.

South Main went into the lead last Sunday with an attendance of 431 while the attendance at the Columbus church was 361. Two weeks ago the Miller Avenue church led by 250 points.

Total number of points for the two churches are South Main, 3,330 and Miller Avenue church, 3,327. The contest began five weeks ago and concludes Easter Sunday. The Mansfield congregation has set an attendance goal of 666 for Easter. Six Sunday school classes reached their goals last Sunday, the Reliables, St. Paul's, Buds of Promise, Plus Ultra, Berean and Christian Home Builders.

Sunday morning Rev. C. L. Kern, pastor, will speak on the subject, "The Trial of Faith," during the 10:30 service.

FILLS PULPIT

Dr. Peterson to be Guest Speaker Sunday at First M. E. Church.

Dr. Howard W. Peterson, superintendent of the Mansfield district of Methodist church, will be guest speaker at the First Methodist church for the annual Thank Offering service of the Women's Foreign Missionary society at 10:30 a. m. Sunday.

Music for the service will include the anthem "Thro' the Day Thy Love Has Spared Us," sung by the choir, and a male quartet will sing "Even Me" by Warren.

PICKS MAGLIONE AS SECRETARY

ed with Europe's trouble spots. Both the Pope and the new secretary are diplomats. Both are Italian. The pontiff has a first-hand knowledge of Germany. Cardinal Maglione has a first-hand knowledge of France. They therefore were considered in foreign circles particularly qualified to ease by diplomacy the stresses between the vatican and political dictatorships, as well as to make the voice of the Catholic church heard on behalf of peace whenever a crisis develops among the nations.

One of the secretary's first duties will be to receive the diplomatic corps, the college of cardinals, the papal court and other officials at the pontiff's summer place at Castel Gandolfo Monday.

The appointment was announced as part of a busy morning for the pontiff, who tomorrow will be crowned formally with elaborate ceremony after mass in great St. Peter's.

He received Prime Minister De Valera of Ireland in private audience earlier today.

Cardinal Maglione was one of the personages whose talks with Premier Laval of France were linked in the world press with the Franco-British proposal to end the Italo-Ethiopian war late in 1935.

Thousands of disappointed applicants for tickets prepared to go to St. Peter's square at sunrise tomorrow to wait all morning for a view of the coronation itself on a balcony outside the basilica about 7 a. m. EST.

A broadcast of the ceremonies, which will last more than four hours, was expected to begin about 2:30 a. m. EST. Radio workers said that only Germany, among the major countries, would not pick up the broadcast for rebroadcasting.

Vatican authorities, however, have arranged to broadcast in German along with other languages.

The famous Sistine and Julian choirs will furnish most of the responsive singing during the five-hour pontifical mass preceding the coronation.

Forum to Resume Discussion At Meeting Tomorrow.

Continuation of a discussion on the subjects "Making the Most of Our Personality in Relation to Others," and "Boy and Girl Relationships," will be held at a meeting of the Community Christian Youth Forum at 7 p. m., Sunday at the First Congregational church.

Discussion of these subjects was started last week and will continue under the leadership of Mrs. H. E. Neese, young people's leader.

The discussion hour will be preceded at 6:30 p. m., with a social and devotional period. Robert Murray and Eldon Swearinger will be in charge of the worship service and Audrey Anglin will be the vocalist.

Plans will be completed at the meeting for a public recital to be given March 19 at 7:30 p. m., at the Park Avenue Baptist church by Oswald Johns.

DINES TUESDAY

St. John's Brotherhood to Have Families as Guests.

"Open House" will be observed by the Brotherhood of St. John's Evangelical church at a meeting Tuesday evening at the church.

A covered-dish dinner will be served for Brotherhood members and their families. Following the dinner, the Senior Young People's society will present the play, "The Bishop's Candlesticks." The play won second place in the county Religious drama held recently at the Senior high school.

SATURDAY, MARCH 11, 1939.

Drive carefully tomorrow—and remember not to cross the double white lines.

Interest in government has not yet increased to the extent of placing the Congressional Record among the six best sellers.

It's hard for outsiders to tell whether those "irreconcilable differences" between American labor groups are based on principle or ambition.

When Water Pressure Fails.

WITHOUT becoming unduly excited about it—and then quickly forgetting—as is so frequently the case with politically conducted public business—it would be a good idea for more Mansfield people to pay some attention to recent revelations regarding inadequacy of city water lines to meet fire-fighting requirements.

In the main, it may be assumed, Mansfield property owners regard this city as their permanent home, and would like to see municipal improvements carried through in a competent, business-like way, and as a long-range program rather than merely to meet immediate emergency needs.

Mansfield's water lines and sewer system were originally designed to service a much smaller city, and, as a result of different ideas of changing city administrations, there has been considerable patch-work, inefficiency and political maneuvering in enlarging the capacity of these services to meet increasing needs.

Whether anything really worthwhile can be accomplished under a system in which responsibility of officials extends through only two or four years, with customary partisan obligations, is problematical.

Considerable thought has been given, during the past several years, to the advisability of establishing a charter form of municipal government in Mansfield, with a city manager in charge of public business.

Possibly this is the time to give more serious consideration to that proposal.

Nuisance of Roaming Dogs.

APPROACH of spring brings with it, as usual, a flood of complaints from residential sections, about the number of dogs that are running at large—to the detriment of lawns and shrubbery, and as a threat to the gardens and flower beds that will come along a little later.

Among the trespassers, of course, are some strays which lack license tags or ownership, but generally, it appears, the offenders are properly tagged and are the pets of responsible owners who show little regard for the reasonable rights of other residents of their neighborhood.

It seems to be not understood by some people that ownership of a dog in a city, or built-up suburban section, carries responsibility to keep the dog from being a nuisance to other people in the vicinity, either by night barking or trespass.

People Decide Law Enforcement Policies.

DURING the course of a mid-week sermon, as reported in yesterday's News-Journal, Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, pastor of First Lutheran church, touched interestingly on subjects of lax law enforcement, as related to the liquor business, and to the desire expressed by a number of Mansfield young people to have what has been termed a "dry night club."

Some other local ministers, and probably a number of members of their congregations, are quite likely in accord with views expressed by Rev. Swoyer—but the city's ministers, plus a few interested laymen, are unequal to the task of doing very much along this line without the backing of public sentiment . . . as was evidenced recently by city council's refusal to pass an ordinance to stop beer selling on Sunday. Such ordinances are in operation in a number of other Ohio cities, and have been upheld by the state supreme court, but the attitude here, as stated by one opposing councilman, is that control of the liquor business is "up to the state."

Lax enforcement of anti-gambling laws, and accessibility of liquor night spots to minors must also be taken as official interpretation of majority sentiment being favorable to continuance of present conditions.

It has frequently been said that the people of a city get just about the kind of law enforcement they want.

Fingerprinting Gains Favor.

WHILE the past couple of years have brought more general public acceptance of fingerprinting as a dependable means of identification, there are still at least a few people who associate the idea of fingerprinting with criminals and who shudder at the thought of having imprints of their fingertips recorded.

Yesterday's request by President Roosevelt that all White House employes be fingerprinted, with expressed hope that this would spread to other branches of government, may result in nation-wide stimulation of interest in fingerprinting—to which there seems to be no legitimate objection, except from those who have been guilty of, or contemplate, illegal acts.

New Career Ideas.

FRESHMEN at the New York City College School of Business, according to a recent survey, nearly all say they are in college to prepare for a career. However, the careers students now plan to follow are different from the choices of the predecessors.

Teaching was long the favorite career of more than three-fourths of freshman women. This year it has been chosen by slightly more than half. Accountancy, formerly first choice of freshman men, has now given way to advertising, merchandising, civil service, banking and foreign trade.

Such changes may not indicate genuine preferences so much as belief that opportunity is greater in the new choices than the old ones. These young people want to have jobs when they finish college, and they are looking around for fields not already crowded.

March, in Ohio, is a month of infinite variety.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—We have just been talking to a young Frenchman fresh from a trip back to his homeland, and as a result understand a trifle more clearly what it feels like to live in a place only two hours removed from an enemy airdrome.

"It is strange to have the sky feeling unsafe," he said. He talked along as he sort of dreamed over the recollection.

"When you cross the English channel, you are an hour farther away, and you feel better, but still not completely safe. Then you cross the Atlantic, five day, six days away. You would never believe it, the feeling of getung away from it, having the Atlantic ocean between."

He blew a blast of cigaret smoke upward with the air of a man who has just raced his car across the railroad track in time to save everything but the tail light.

* * *

Boosts Spanish.

SAFETY is not the only thing he talked about. He thought it was strange that schools in the United States taught more French than Spanish. (I don't know whether they do, but that was his impression.)

He thinks it is a mistake for Americans not to study Spanish instead.

"It is the main thing that stands between the people of the United States and the South American countries," he said. "There is a feeling of affinity among people who speak the same language.

"When an American comes up who speaks only English they sense the Anglo-Saxon. There is a freezing up." He shrugged his shoulders at this point to symbolize freezing up—and did so very well.

"There is a gap between the United States and South America as wide as the ocean," he said, with outspread arms to signify the immense distance. "Even between the United States and Mexico it is wide, wider than you would believe. I meet them here. (He waved his hand to sweep in all the Latin-speaking embassies. He has access to them.

"And it is mostly language that makes the difference. It is hard to understand that you have so many unemployed here when South America needs so many people who know how to do things—mechanics, farmers."

* * *

Speech Without Words.

AND we are reminded at this point that Latins speak one language Yankees never will master. Call it shrug language.

As a sample: A reporter asked a Chilean diplomat the significance of a recent "disturbance" in the Chilean government. In reply—

The Chilean shrugged his shoulders, pursed his lips, then unshrugged and unpursed, but went into an eyebrow lifting display. Not a word did he speak. He spread his hands to imply the impossibility of any interpretation. Then he pursed his lips once more and put his fingers to them as if about to toss a kiss. Once more he shrugged his shoulders then smiled the smile of a Latin diplomat who wishes to convey nothing at all by the smile—and the interview ended. It last a full minute with nothing said except by the baffled reporter who, for no reason he could give later, said "thank you."

Borah and Norris Do Not Agree

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

Senators William E. Borah and George W. Norris disagree on a queer proposition—for that pair to disagree on. Borah of Idaho and Norris of Nebraska are pretty much alike. Borah is an American isolationist—absolute nonparticipation in overseas quarrels is his motto par excellence. Norris is the only surviving senator who voted aginst this country's participation in the World War.

Borah.

They're partners, to all intents and purposes. Borah calls himself a Republican; really he's an independent. Norris was reelected in his last campaign as an independent, but previously he always had run as a Republican.

Now they've split. Norris is in favor of American aerial defense. Borah contends that aerial defense is a mere matter of jitters. Neither of the two has any expert knowledge of the problem.

Senator Borah's Case.

Senator Borah's proposition is that no foreign power can get here—aerially or otherwise. He recognizes that German or Italian planes can wreck London or Paris, but he contends that they couldn't imaginably flit damagingly over New York or Washington or farther inland. So, why—he asks—blow in good money against the impossible?

"Jitters," he says.

Military aviators concur with him, more or less.

Senator Norris' Version.

Senator Norris concedes that no overseas power can invade the United States, from across the Atlantic or the Pacific.

However, he argues that Japanese warships, on the west coast, or German or Italian east coast vessels could play heck with our defenses, east and west. It's a funny viewpoint for a Nebraska pacifist, but it has its logic. Anyway, Senator Norris maintains that it's pacifistic; Senator Borah reasons that it's belligerent.

What's Aviation's Value?

The truth is:

What's aviation good for, militarily speaking? It's nice for observation purposes. It's an arm, as fighters express it. German and Italian aviators can smash London and Paris, to be sure. But England and France can smash up Berlin and Rome, for that matter. They can do this at short range—but how about New York and farther westward? They can't land anybody. They can't get home, even. They'll have to descend on foreign soil and be captured.

German planes bombed London and got home again, but they couldn't do it in New York or Chicago. They'd be highly offensive certainly, but they'd be attended to.

Defensive or What?

Senator Norris' program is in opposition to that contingency. He wants SOME defense.

Senator Borah doesn't consider ANY defense necessary.

They're a queer pair—Borah and Norris.

Listen, World!

Wreaths for Hollywood.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

ANOTHER of those "Want to Be a Columnist for a Day" letters . . . and one that'll make music in many a discouraged director's ear. For now comes Mrs. Ruby Berkley Goodwin of Fullerton, Cal., with wreaths of Hollywood.

"Remember those grim, old days when the Villyun was 100 per cent Bad . . . 'n' the Hero so pure they kept him under glass? And Filmland idols were supposed to have seven wives, more or less? 'N' Pearl White went weekly to meet a different death?"

It's Ruby Goodwin asking—and dasting you not to grin. Sure you remember! Liked 'em fine, too, didn't you? But that was before the Critics came along and told you it all was T-R-I-P-E. Trash! Infantile Antics! Mush for Morons! Which, maybe, was all too true. Only why did those Dagoned Kibitzers always have to spoil your fun?

"But now," says Ruby, "you can have your fun—and like it. Even boast of it! FOR HOLLYWOOD'S GONE PSY-CHO-LOG-I-CAL. And you don't have to sneak down the alley when you step your best girl out. You can march right up the Long Hairs—the boys with the Oxford A."

Nice news isn't it, after all the knocking and belittling poor old Screen Town's had? And Mrs. Goodwin goes on to make it even better.

"One hears such constant criticism of the movies. Of course there still are worthless films, but I think it's time that someone showed appreciation of the fine work which is being done. HOLLYWOOD IS DARING TO SHOW US LIFE AS IT IS. SOMETIMES THE STORY IS NOT BEAUTIFUL—BUT NEITHER IS LIFE. SOMETIMES IT DOESN'T HAVE A HAPPY ENDING . . . NEITHER DOES LIFE. BUT BY DARING TO BE HONEST . . . AND BY MAKING US THINK HONESTLY IN RETURN . . . HOLLYWOOD IS PERFORMING A PRICELESS SERVICE.

"Think of some of the pictures we have recently seen. Paul Muni in 'The Story of Louis Pasteur' . . . 'The Life of Zola' . . . 'The Good Earth' and 'Bordertown'. All dealt with vital issues. All have told graphic stories, pulling the cover off government intrigue, military corruption, the sordid life of the Chinese peasant, the bigotry of supposedly superior races and the struggles of honest physicians and scientists. King Vidor wrote screen history this year with the stark drama 'The Citadel'. Un-American cults have been exposed, as in the 'Black Legion'.

"Hollywood has made us PACK OUR OWN RESPONSIBILITY. The sordid conditions of our penal institutions, where men are broken instead of being rehabilitated, have been laid bare before us. With the exposure of the parole racket we learn why many habitual criminals are carelessly thrown back upon society while many unfortunate first offenders stay inside prison walls and become bitter and unfit to re-enter society. 'Dead End' was a strong indictment against the indifference of society to the fate of children born and bred in sordid surroundings. 'Boys' Town' offered a challenge and showed what can be done to save our young boys.

"Then, like a 'shot in the arm' to all those timid, standardized people who dare not defy convention and LIVE REAL, came Lionel Barrymore in 'You Can't Take It With You'. 'Grandpa' Barrymore taught his family, by precept and example, to BE THEMSELVES . . . and All America blessed him for it!

"THANK HEAVEN FOR THE GENIUS WHICH DARES TO EXPOSE OUR SMUG COMPLACENCY, OUR INTOLERABLE AND STUPIDITY . . . OUR TRAGIC IMMATURITY! HOLLYWOOD IS MAKING AMERICA GROWN UP!"

Ruby Berkeley Goodwin,
Fullerton, Calif.

Nice words—yes! And here's my personal encore. How's for having some more like 'em soon!

Timely Editorial

Nebraska Holds the Line.

Rejection by the Nebraska legislature of a bill proposing to tax all incomes of $500 a year or more is in line with the state's unique policy. For a number of years Nebraska has been notable as the one state with the combination of no state debt, no income tax, no sales tax and no luxury taxes.

It has achieved this record by strong resistance to pressure groups, by constitutional and legislative limitations on spending by subdivisions of government, efficient administration, avoiding new forms of taxes which usually result in additional tax loads and certainly in heavy administrative costs, and finally by a pay-as-you-go plan for all state activities. Even Nebraska's magnificent $10,000,000 capitol building was erected without one cent of interest, debt or even rent for temporary state offices.

Tax and debt maps of the nation in the past have shown Nebraska as the one white spot. It is the state's evident determination to maintain that happy distinction.—Kansas City Times.

What's Happened?

Week-End Summary of Current Events.

LAST YEAR the U. S. senate voted, 49 to 42, for governmental reorganization, but the house balked, 204 to 196. It was a spectacular fight and this week the New Deal renewed it in the house, and won, 246 to 153.

Highly controversial parts of last year's bill had been left out of the proposal this year, but it still would authorize mergers, eliminations and shake-ups in the executive branch of the government by the president when not objected to by both houses of congress within 60 days.

The Democrats supporting it dubbed 135 federal departments containing about 500 bureaus a "Frankenstein" monster overdue for surgery. Republicans retorted that it was a "Franklin-stein" set-up and fought vainly for amendments that would have given congress more control over the operation.

The Business Battle.

Meanwhile, from tropical waters where the U. S. navy was split into opposing forces to test its strength last week, Commander-in-Chief Roosevelt had plunged into Washington's hot political waters—where his economists were split in a test of power.

The Federal Reserve board recommended "greater public expenditures" and there was talk of raising the $45,000,000,000 limit on the national debt.

But Senate Finance Committee Chairman Harrison—a foe of the theory that the government can spend its way to prosperity—and Chairman Doughton of the house ways and means committee urged tax modifications to help private industry. And Vice President Garner and Elder Statesman Bernard Baruch loomed behind the congressional economy bloc.

The Defense Debate.

Before turning to governmental reorganization, the house had passed a $499,857,000 army appropriation bill and received a request from the president for $110,000,000 more for rifles, tanks, etc. An army expansion bill, passed previously by the house, was passed this week by the senate, 77 to 8, after much oratory. The senate amended it, however, to hike the number of planes authorized from 5,500 to 6,000 and to limit the manufacturers' profits.

The president, simultaneously, frowned on both the neutrality law and the idea of taking a vote before declaring war. The neutrality law has not contributed to peace and may have been partly responsible for war threats, he opined. And senate committee hearings on plans to amend it were promised shortly.

At Home

Children Save Lives.

"We have the highest death rate from appendicitis of any civilized country." Dr. Mont R. Reed of the University of Cincinnati told surgeons meeting this week in Atlanta. It could be cut in half, he continued. And in Cincinnati, it has been reduced—by teaching school children that a doctor should be called to treat abdominal pains.

Common boils and carbuncles cause many deaths, too, when not treated, Dr. George H. Bunch of Columbia, S. C., warned.

* * *

Unexploded Bombs.

When moving recently, a Chicago safe deposit company found a box in its vault contained four bombs.

Authorities said gaunt, German-born Reinhold Faust, 74, had intended to terrorize World war meetings with those bombs but had been jailed on another charge. So, it was alleged, he had thrown away the key but kept up payments on the box, to guard his secret.

In court this week, Faust declared he was "a little fanatical" during the war but now is "thoroughly satisfied." And charges against him were dropped.

* * *

On Matrimonial Seas.

Pre-spring plunges into matrimony have been taken by Hedy Lamarr, film star, with Gene Markey, writer; Ursula Parrott, novelist, with Alfred C. Schermerhorn, literary agent; and Donald Ogden Stewart, humorist, with Leonore Winter, ex-wife of the late Lincoln Steffens.

Toby Wing, dancer, has been Mrs. Dick Merrill since last June, the flier admitted this week. Clark Gable was divorced Tuesday by his second wife, and Carole Lombard was expected to become the third Mrs. Gable.

Abroad

Revolt In Madrid.

An ultimatum from Spain's caudillo, Francisco Franco, demanding unconditional surrender of the Madrid government, expired last Sunday. There was no surrender. Instead, there was another revolution—and soon, a counter revolution.

Franco was patient. While his foes fought amongst themselves, he ordered their whole coast blockaded—even though the British, who recognized his government last week, had not granted him belligerency righis yet.

The British government, meanwhile, prepared to send an army across the channel to the continent, if necessary, in the next war.

* * *

Cracks In China.

The Rising Sun flag was hoisted last week over the Yellow Sea port of Haichow. This week muddy men strove to carry the banner to more ports on the 3,100-mile-long Yangtze river and bombers blasted at Communist strongholds in the northwest.

In North China, simultaneously, there was an economic battle. Japan forbade use of Chinese dollars. Britain's chancellor of the exchequer, Sir John Simon, then announced that two British banks had contributed $25,000,000 to a $50,000,000 currency stabilization fund set up by the Chinese government.

* * *

Latin American Dept.

Brazil's and America's "mutual desire for co-operation," president Roosevelt observed this week, has been shown by Foreign Minister Aranha's visit to Washington. Credit to help Brazil buy U. S. goods was reported arranged during his one-month visit. Brazil, simultaneously, quit selling oranges to Germany rather than accept more "compensation marks" for them.

* * *

Papal Coronation.

The outside balcony of St. Peter's was chosen by Pope Pius XII as the scene of his coronation this week-end. Not since 1846 has such a ceremony been held out of doors.

The new pontiff's first address to the world was a plea for "that peace, sublime gift of Heaven, which is desired by all honest souls and which is the fruit of charity and justice."

As papal secretary of state, he visited the United States in 1936, and this week he gave his benediction to the American people in audiences with William Cardinal O'Connell of Boston and George Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago.

People

Gandhi's Fast.

Mohandas K. Gandhi, 69, has renounced the title, "Mahatma," which means "great soul." Since then his followers have called him "Mahatmaji," which signifies more greatness.

His latest feat was a 98½-hour fast, by which he won political reforms in Rajkot—a 283-square-mile state, with a population of 61,000, northwest of Bombay.

There are more than 600 native states like Rajkot in India. There also are provinces with parliaments. And of late the native princes' subjects have clamored more and more for rights comparable to those of people in the provinces.

Dionne Indifferent.

Washington society women have been deluging the British embassy with calling cards in the hope of being invited to see the king and queen when they come to America. But when Canadas' Papa Dionne was urged recently to take his quintuplets to Toronto to see the royal couple, he grumbled that the king and queen ought to visit the nursery.

Labor

Seek Agreement.

During negotiations for labor peace John L. Lewis proposed that AFL and CIO hold conventions in April to adopt a basic plan. That plan, as he outlined it, would call for representatives of AFL, CIO and the four railroad brotherhoods to meet this spring in Washington with President Roosevelt presiding, to form an ACL—American Congress of Labor.

He suggested, futher, that the ACL bar both himself and AFL President Green from office, give Green and Frank Morrison of AFL life pensions equal to their present pay, elect one of the railroad brotherhood men as its president, give AFL and CIO equal representation on its executive board, and avail itself of the U. S. labor department's conciliation bureau in mediating jurisdictional arguments.

AFL immediately vetoed the CIO suggestion and charged that Lewis was "embarrassing" the president.

Wednesday the negotiators met with Miss Perkins, and agreed that they should hold another session Friday night in New York to consider CIO's proposal and any other suggestions that might be offered.

* * *

Divided Union.

There are two United Auto Workers unions now—one led by Homer Martin, which held a convention this week in Detroit, and another headed by R. J. Thomas, which will meet in Cleveland on March 27.

Delegates to this week's convention elected Martin president, severed connections with CIO, slashed expenses by reducing the number of union executives, and voted to bar Communists, Nazis and Fascists from office.

Martin estimated that more than half of 200,000 workers in good standing favor his faction, but Thomas called such figures phoney.
